Nancy,

It's really been fun knowing you these past three years, skiing and all. I can't thank you enough for carrying my books, while I have this awful broken leg. You are really sweet (I mean it)!

Love ya,

CURRICULUM-FACULTY

Science

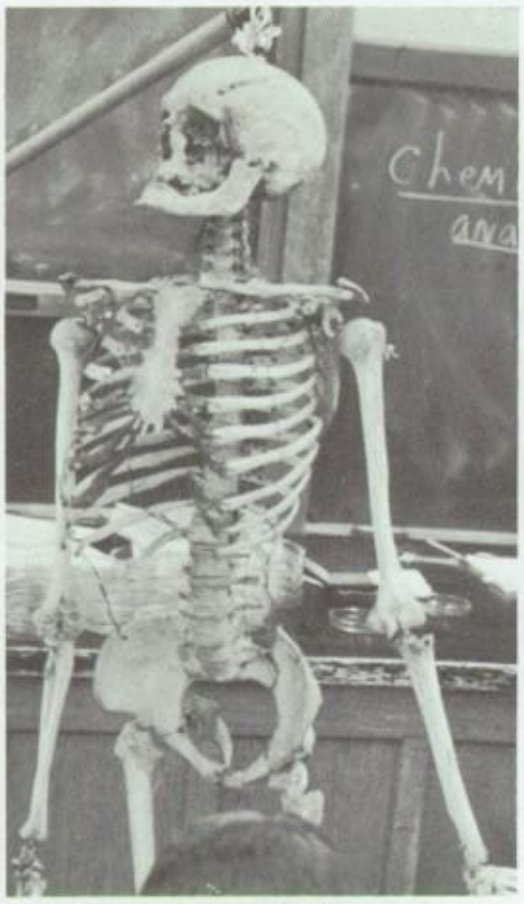
Mr. Melvin Spurlin outlines the program for Biology I.

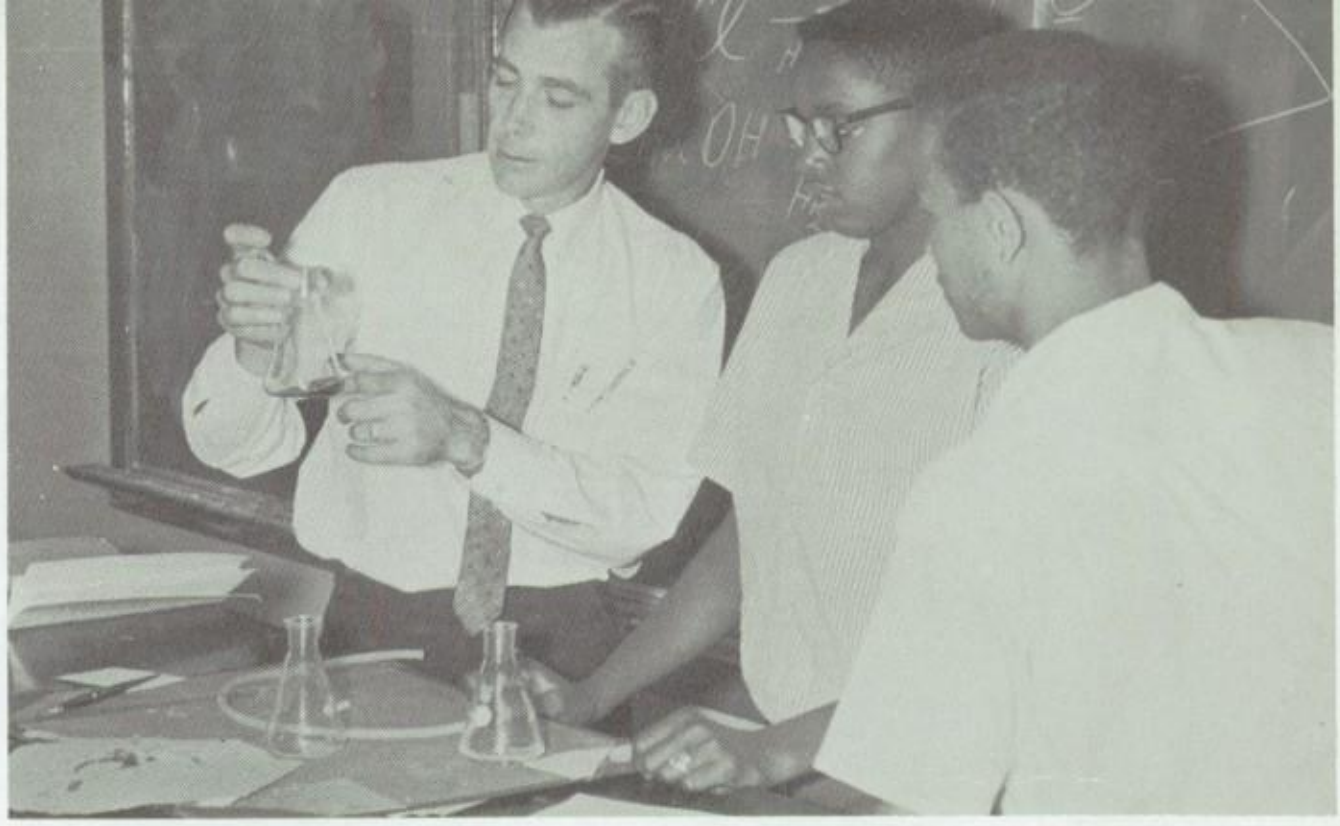
Mr. Richard Gallegos indicates the proper chemical for the best biological results.

Mr. Dominic Zarlengo demonstrates correct physical relationships.

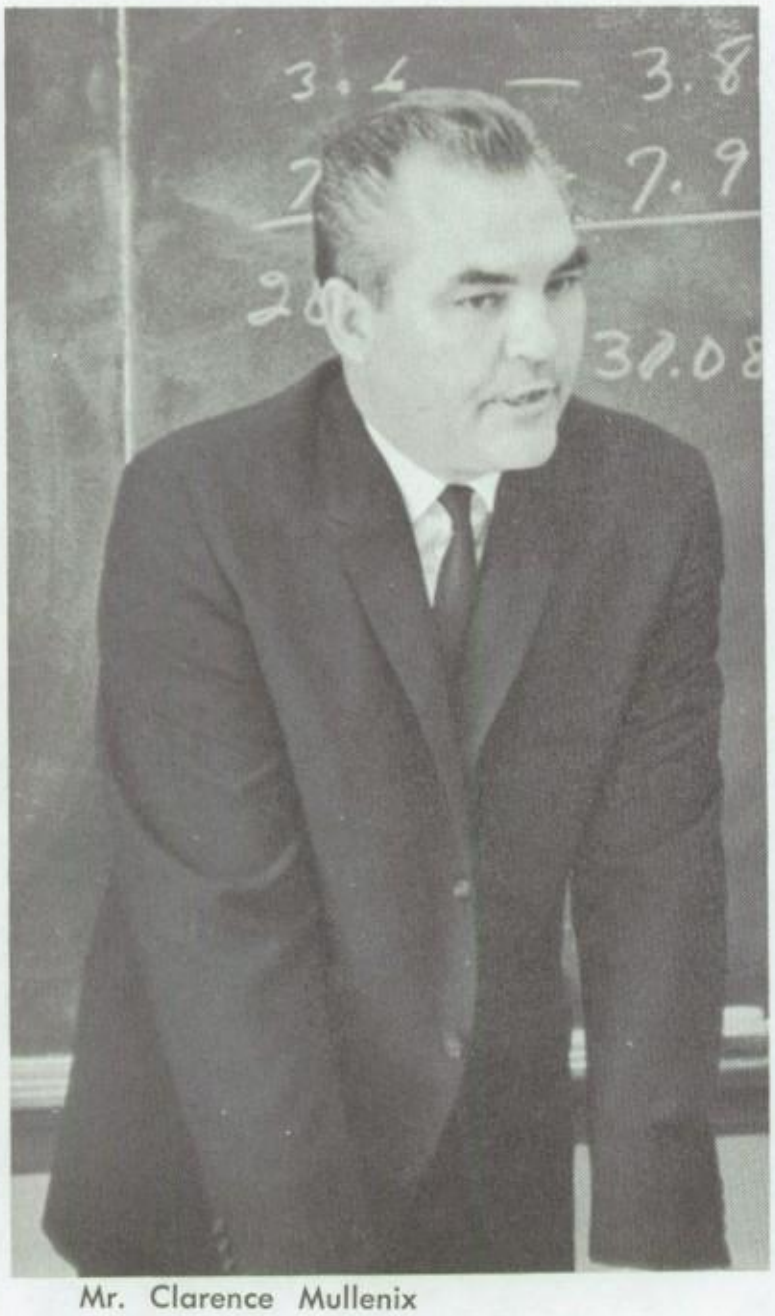
Miss Carol Dykes helps a student to pin down a smaller world.



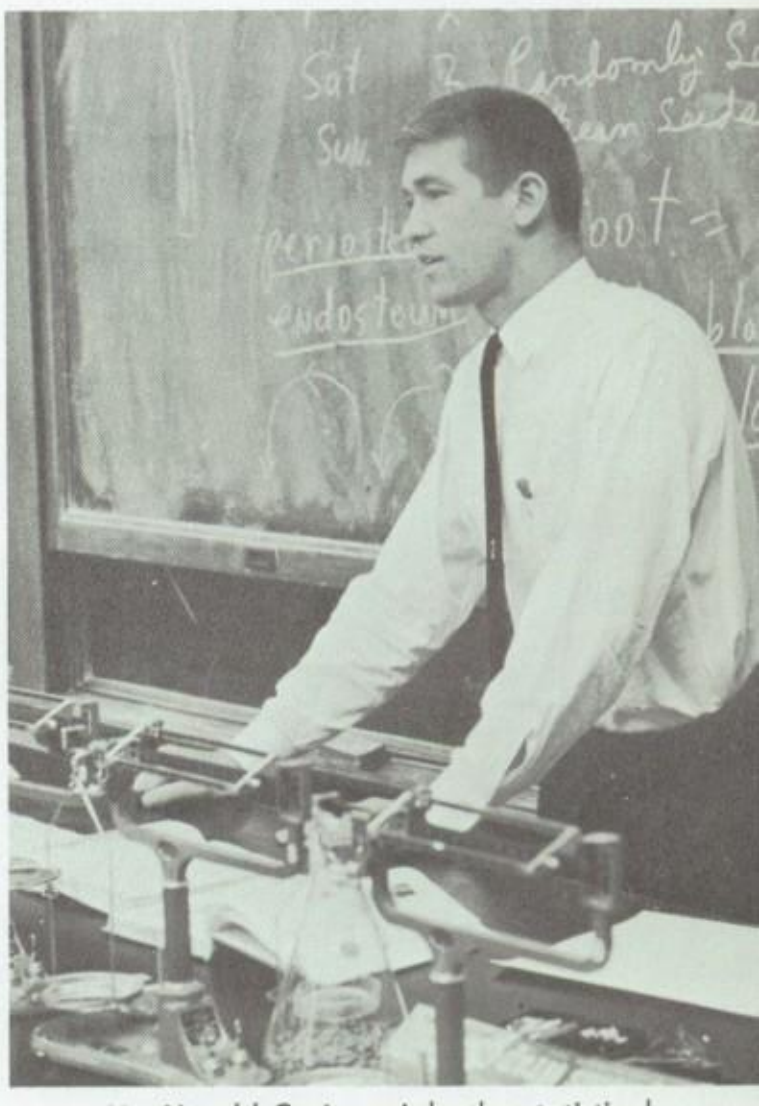
Unembarrassed, "Shasta" illustrates anatomy.



Applied Science, taught by Mr. Richard Strickland, emphasizes the practical application of science.



Mr. Clarence Mullenix explains present-day alchemy.



Mr. Harold Craig weighs the statistical probabilities of germination in zoology.

Science

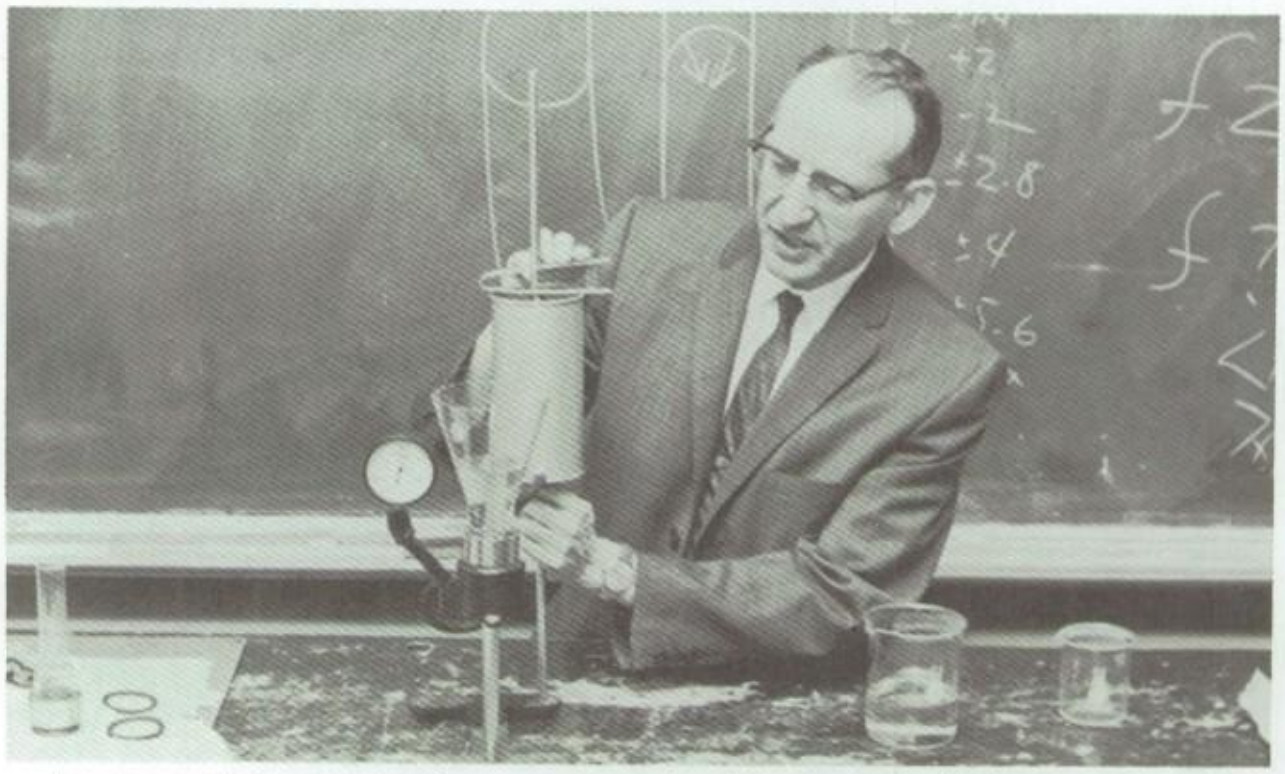
some day.

In his own inimitable fashion, Dr. Williamson explains the process of titration to an interested David Soker.



Mr. Morris Hoffman is under pressure as he demonstrates physics in depth.

Preparing for an experiment in Physics, Mr. Julian Jacobi sets up equipment.

Art

Carol Washco has fun mixing clay for a pottery project.

Jim Cazer listens as Miss Regina Desjardins offers a suggestion concerning his free style.

Art . . .

Man's instinctive search for something above himself . . . his own creative vision of nature, the universe, himself, expressing his imagination with daubs of color on once-white paper in the molding of an almost-alive statue from the inanimate substances of earth and water . . . Man's pride in his world depicted in a thousand unique and varied ways.

Miss Carolyn Epperson contemplates the classic simplicity of a clay vase created by one of her students.

Art

Danny Baylor finishes a finely formed ceramic shape.

The flying wheel . . . while sensitive hands form a creation in glorified mud.

Knowledge of art technique is reflected as Mrs. Olive Green guides the pen of Candy Meininger.

English

Mr. Lee, by using records and tapes, illustrates one aspect of English.

Miss Linda French posts American literature assignments hopefully.

"If everything happens that can't be done"— a paradox, yet a key to the ever-changing forms and phrases of an ancient and complex language

Miss June Smith annotates the negative while reading a student composition.

The intricacies of grammar constitute the subject matter for Mr. Raymond Schwartz's lecture.

Mrs. Genevieve Kreiner's dramatic interpretations of Shakespeare's plays furnish a third dimension to the Bard's words.

Miss Carol Shaw lists prominent literary critics.

Proper oratorical posture is demonstrated by Mrs. Judith Ward before her Speech Class.

An English 5x class is given a thorough and energetic perusal by Mr. Harry Grill.

Mrs. Evva Vickers explains to her English literature class the significance of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

English

Pam Riffle, listens intently to the beneficial advice of Mr. Joseph Garcia.

English

Miss Judy Rowntree analyzes an aspect of "The Road Not Taken."

Miss Elizabeth Schmitz discusses the dialogue for the day.

Miss Royalyn Lockhart reads an especially interesting passage of English literature.

Mr. Ralph Johnson cites textual testimony in a talk on transcendentalists.

English

Mr. Nichols soberly prepares for a contemporary literature class.

Mrs. Hill captures English students' attention.

Mrs. Flatow peers questioningly at Jim Florey's notes.

Mr. Zumwinkle chortles from the back of the room.

Mrs. Piggott reinforces German with strong gesticulation.

Foreign Language

While a student crosses his fingers, Mr. Kamp reads the grades.

Foreign Language

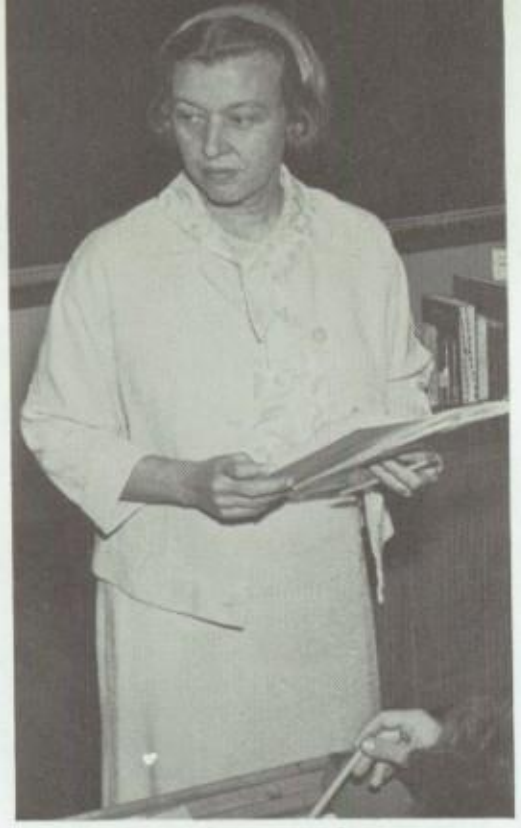
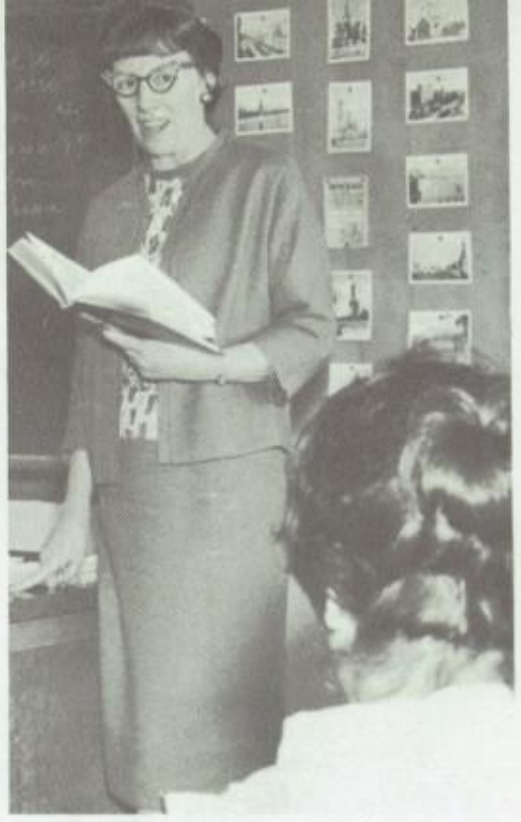
Understanding the geography of France adds depth to the study of the French language in Mrs. Helen Arnold's classes.

Mrs. Dorothy Gaubatz elucidates on the more exciting aspects of Virgil.

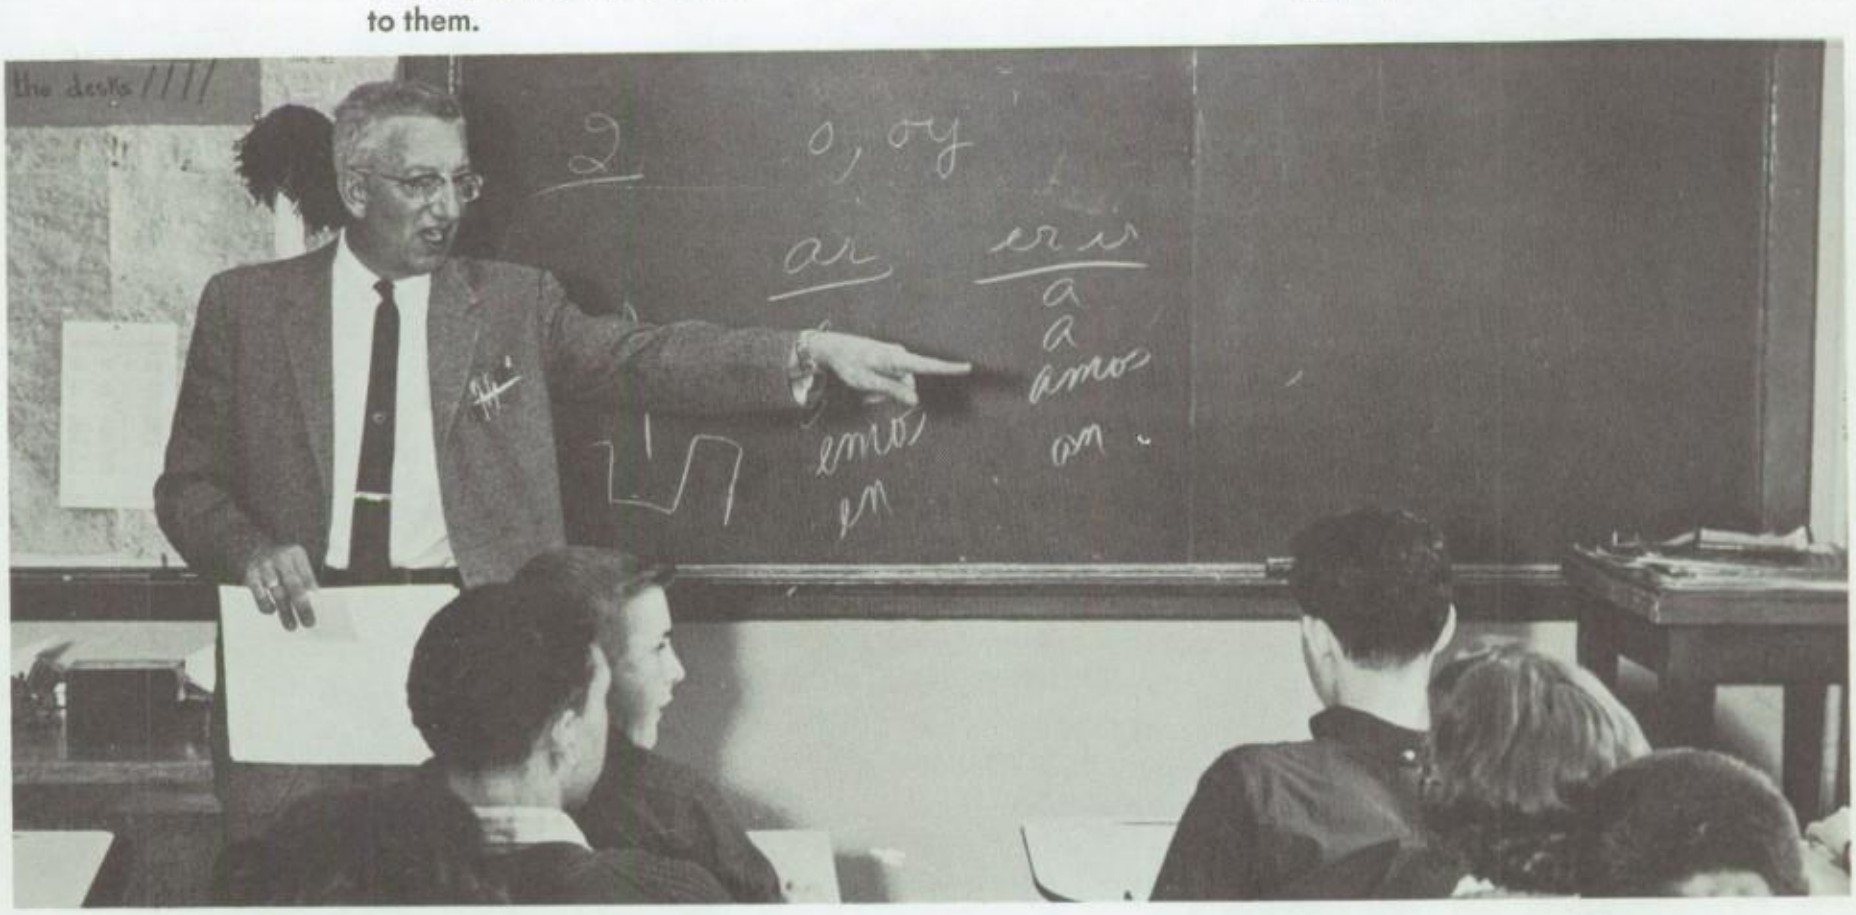
Miss Margaret M. Smith's Latin students nervously wait to be called during an oral test.



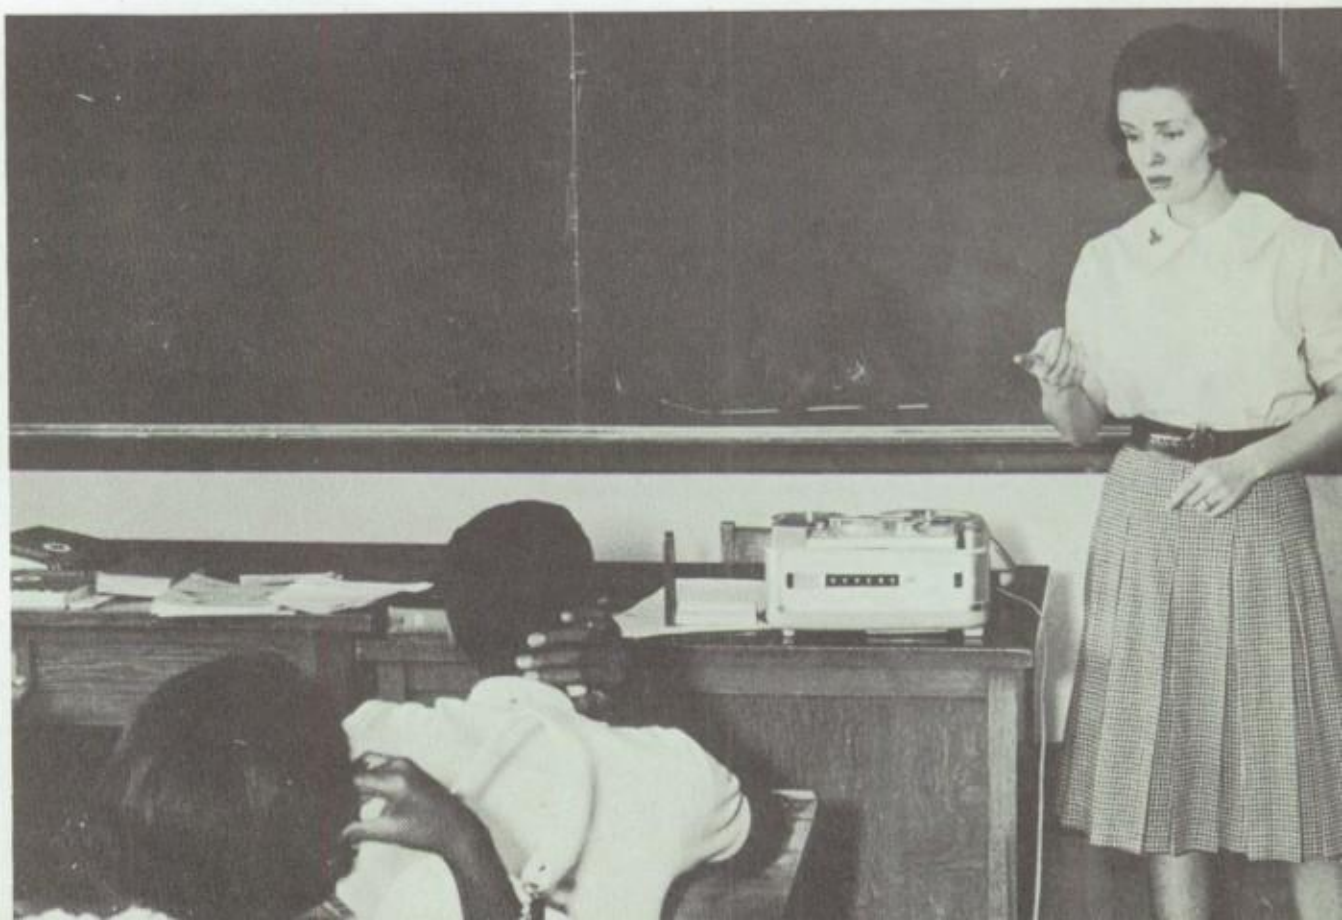
Mrs. Barbara Fesler gives her Spanish class a break from the normal routine by reading a humorous story to them.



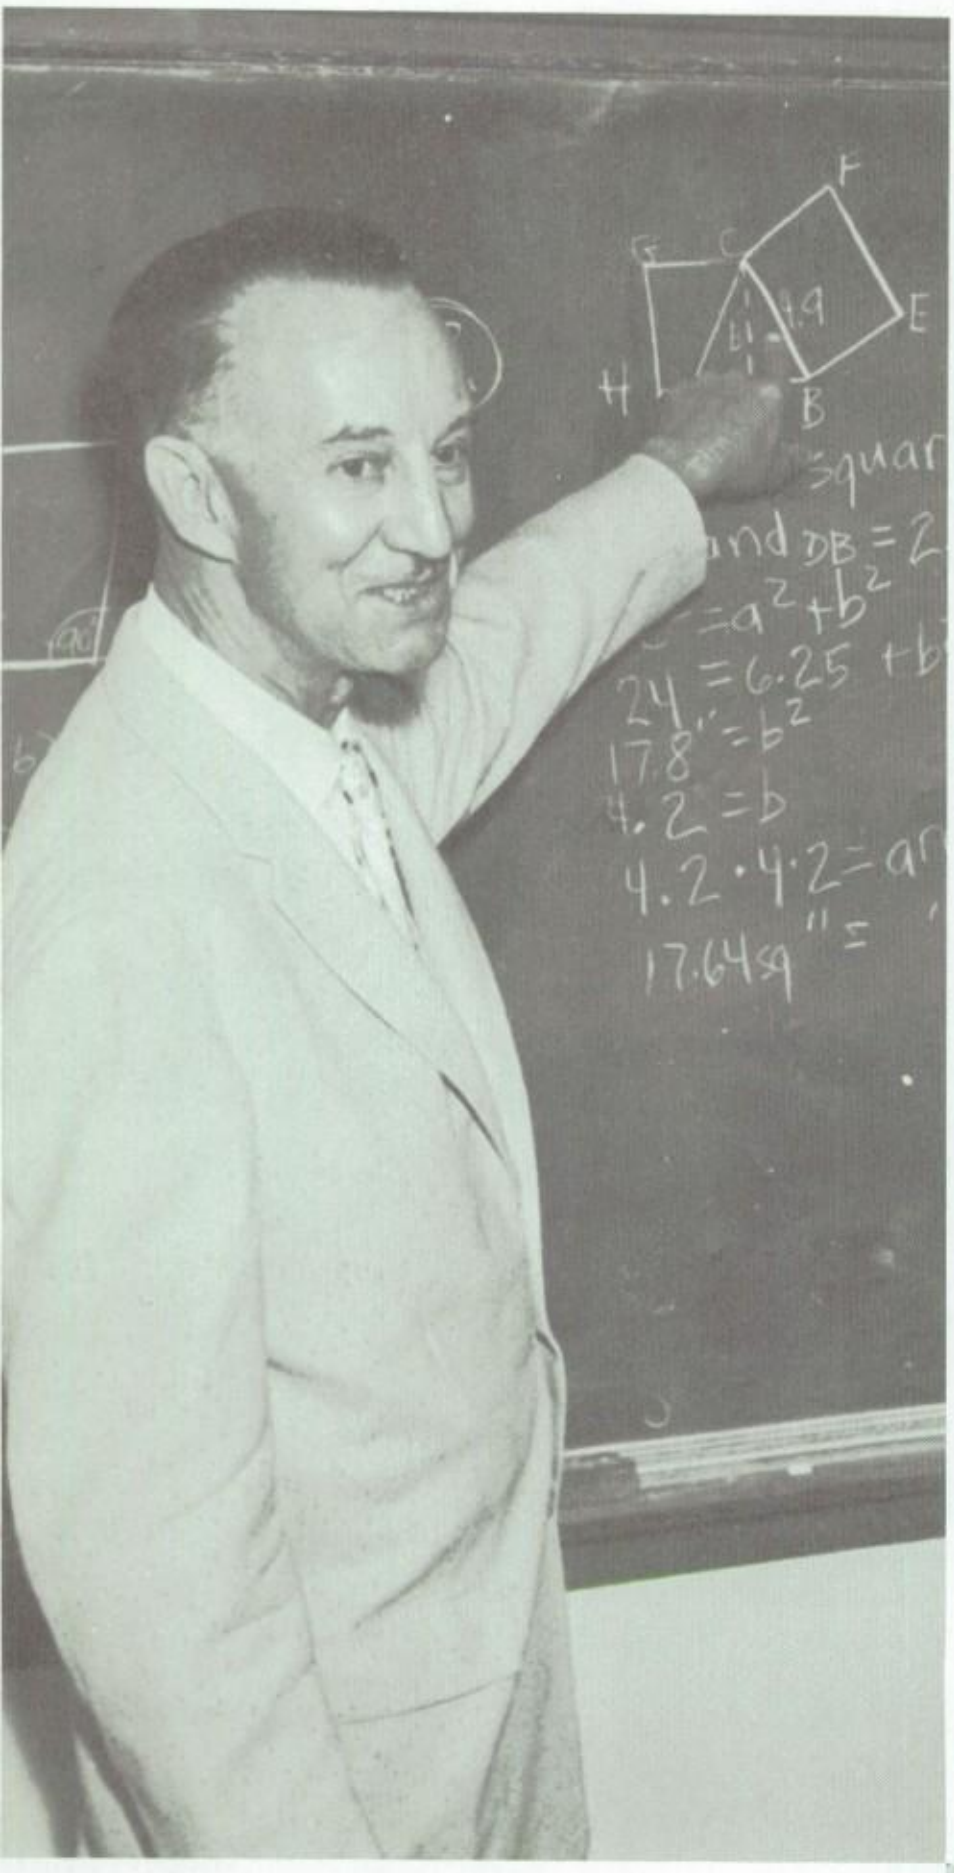
Students prepare for the future through Mrs. Mary Nell Gerner's Russian classes.



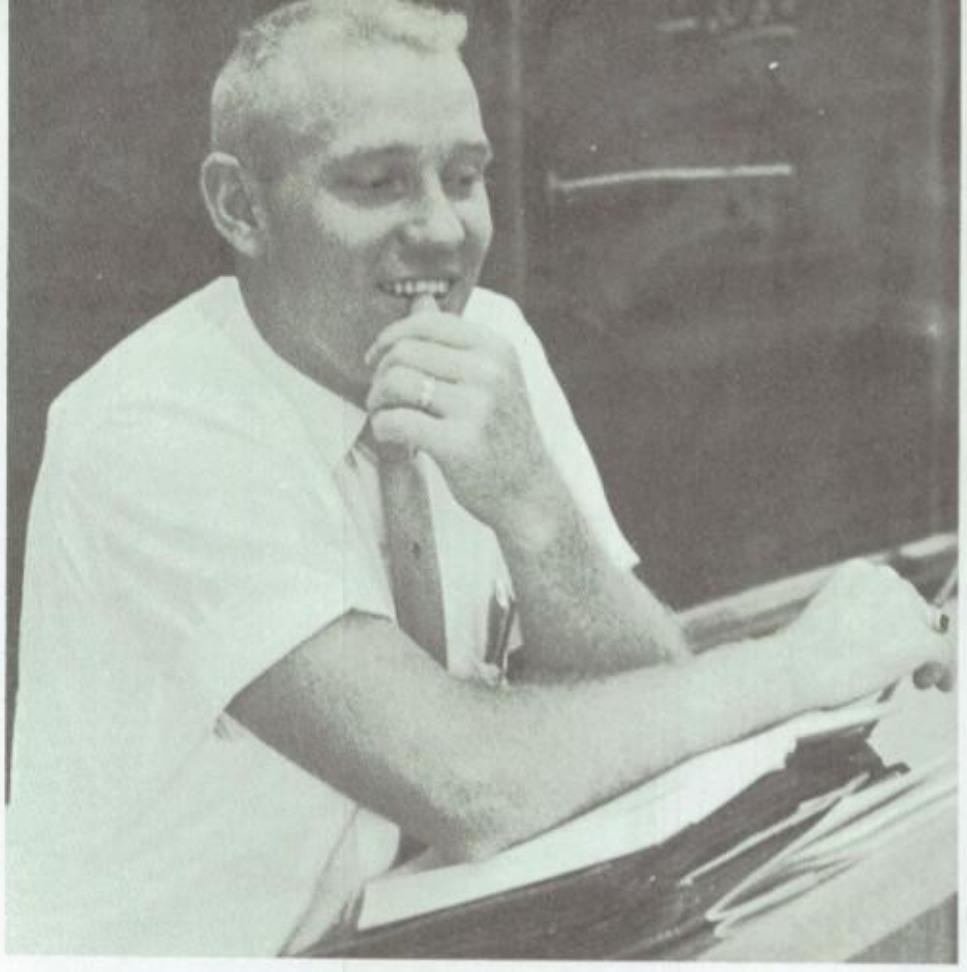
Dr. John B. Matties points out a student's digression from the norm.



Miss Patricia O'Melia takes her French classes on a personal tour of France.



Mr. A. Bruce Ewer obtains extreme enjoyment from the derivation of the Pythagorean theorem.



Mr. Stanley Laughlin explains a mathematical anecdote from his podium.

Studiousness applies to teachers as well as students, as Mr. Larry French has found.

Mathematics

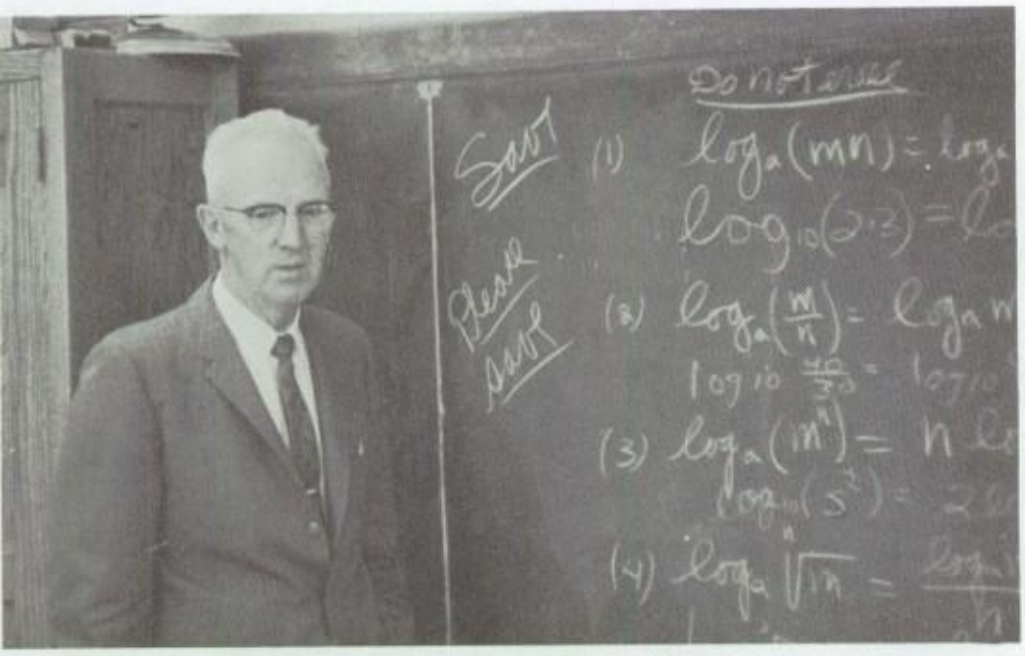
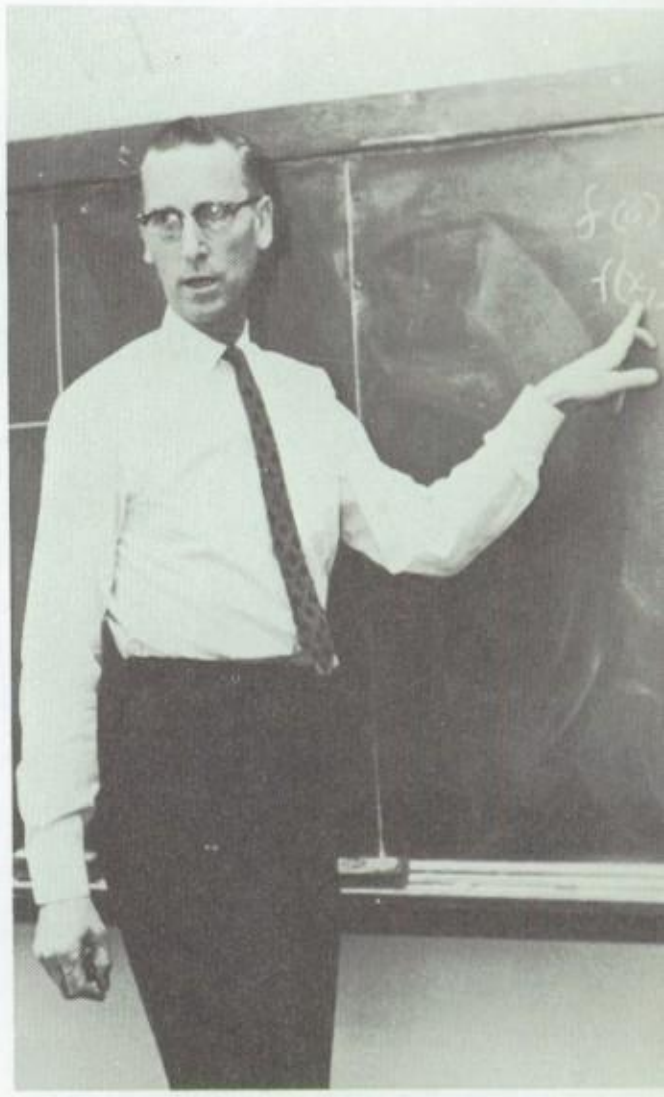
A finger proves an excellent pointer for Mr. Clyde Hinderlider.

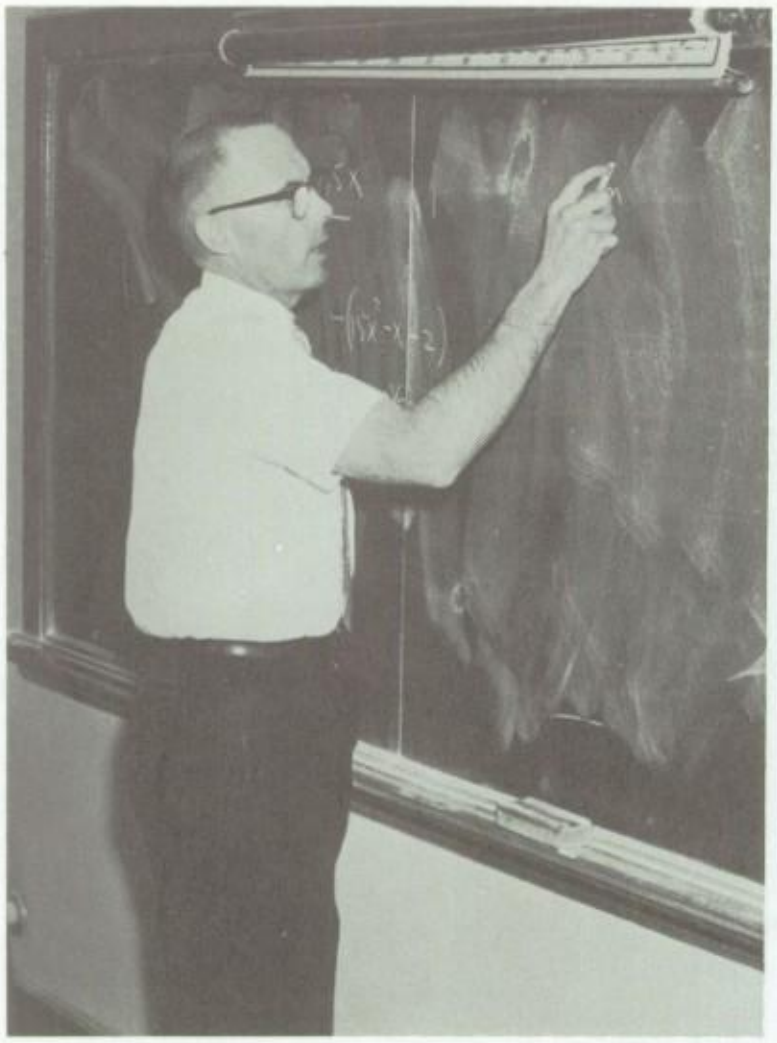


Mr. Chester Phelps meditates upon a difficult class query.



Mr. William Kruse unravels a function of x for Algebra 3 students.

Questions are analyzed in detail by Miss Elsa Berger.



The binomial theorem is humorously explained by Mr. Nicholson.

Miss Betsy Bishop postulates the Pythagorean Theorem.

Mathematics

Miss Mary Thompson aptly demonstrates the value of a blackboard in teaching math.

Social Studies

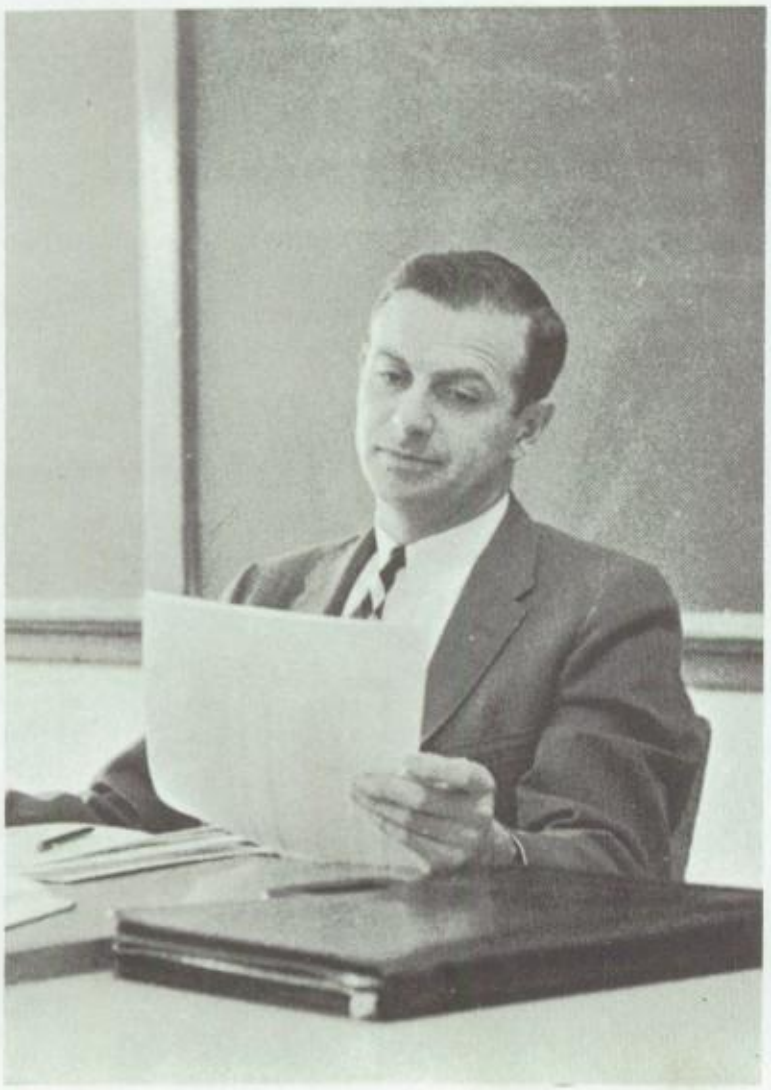
Events before, between and after these are history — the concern of the Social Science Department. Teachers attempt to involve the student in both yesterday, today and tomorrow, through the study of history. A knowledge of the "why" of the battles, elections, wars, personalities, aids a student to understand the events of today.

Mrs. Mary Weed pursues her quest for social justice in her Modern European History class.

The concept of republican government is elucidated by Mr. Michael Mahonchak.



Mr. Daniel Burmeister explains the fallacy of the half-truth in historical interpretation.

Mr. John Timmons valiantly demonstrates the structure of the original Thirteen Colonies to an interested student.

Morality and immorality are thoroughly discussed by Mrs. Alice Call and her Girls' Social Problems classes.

Social Studies

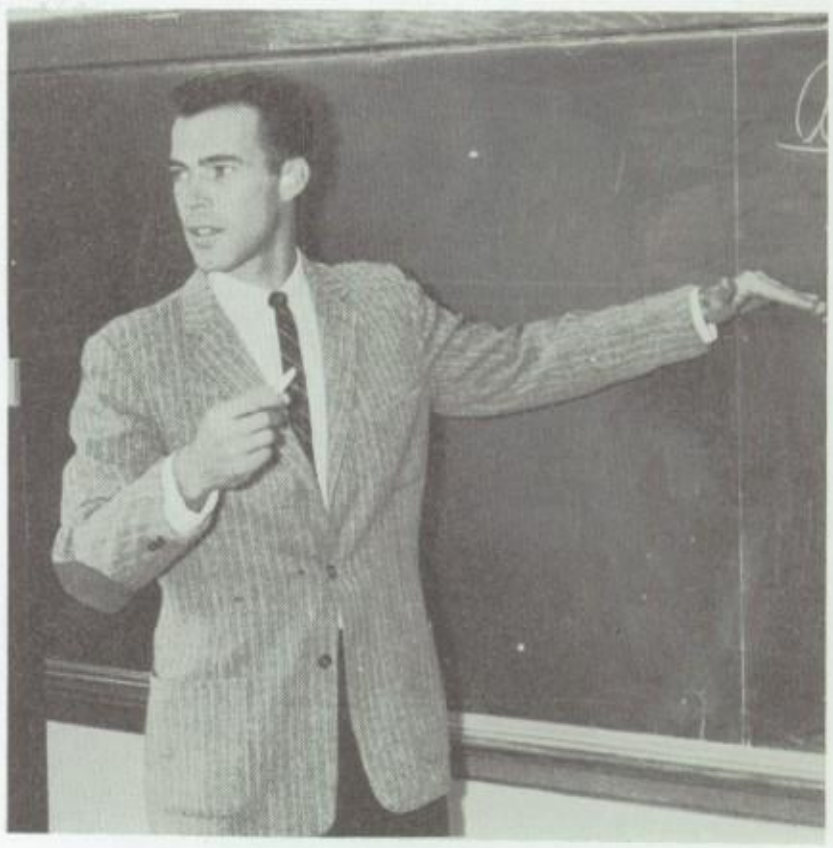
The Revolutionary War and its effects on society are explained expertly by Miss Shirley Asklof.

Saint Benedict, Eleanor of Aquitaine, Beckett, Franks and Ostrogoths are first hand knowledge for Mr. Edward Race and his Medieval History classes.

Enthralled by a lecture on the Civil War munitions, students turn away from the window.



Mr. Raymond Acsell lectures to his Boys' Social Problems class.

Hanging over the lecturn, Mrs. Abigail Root explains the Gardens of Babylon.

Mr. Price Smith explains the symbolism inherent in an obelisk.

Mr. Wayne Fox locates Hoover Dam for his American History class.

Social Studies

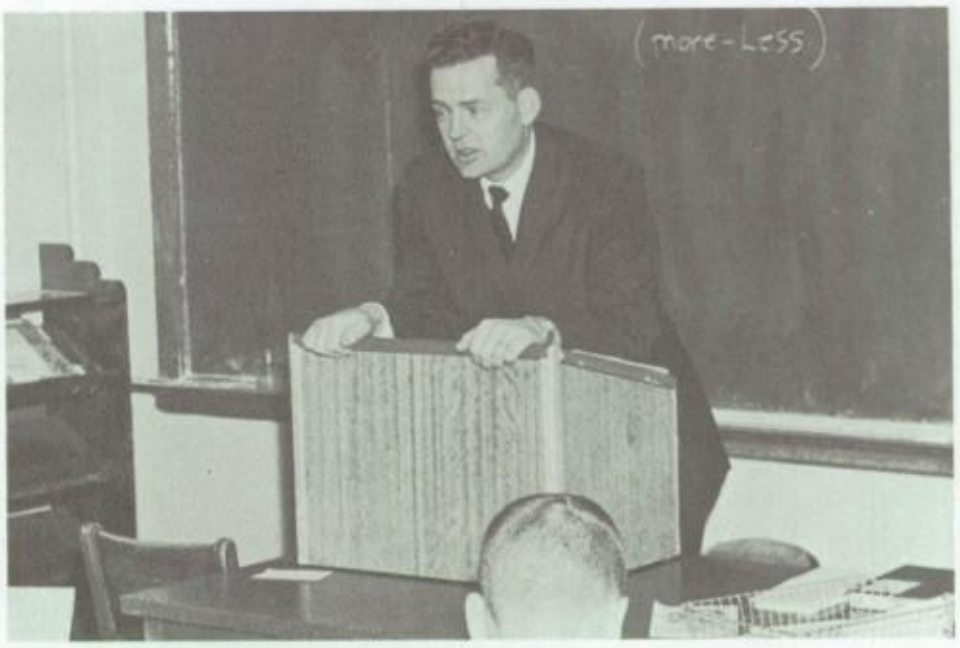
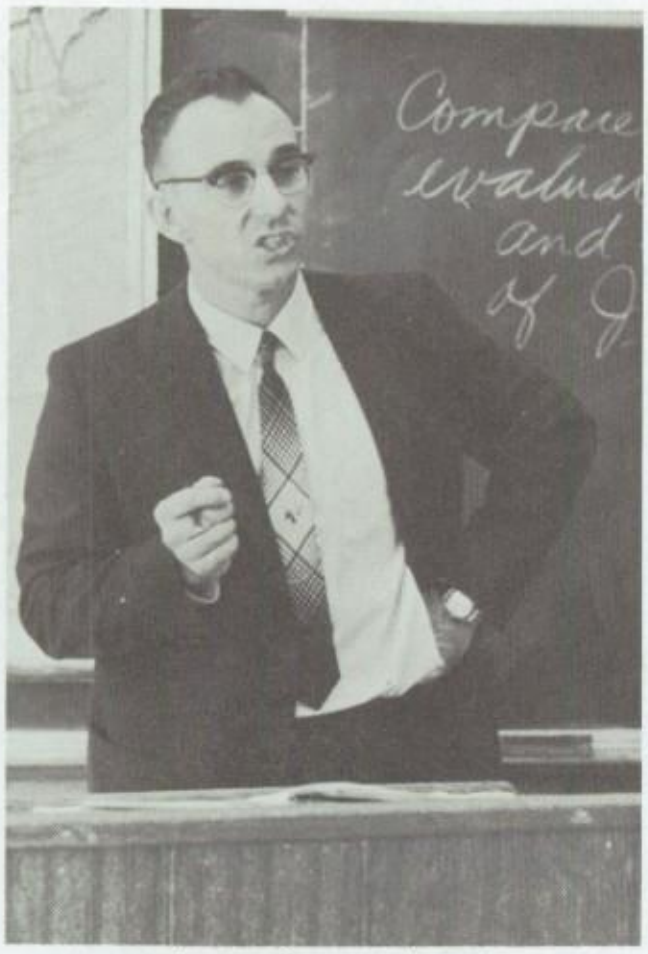
Mr. Emil Ziegler explains the hidden meaning of such status symbols as expensive cars.



Mr. James Svenson discusses the basic integrity of Oakes Ames.

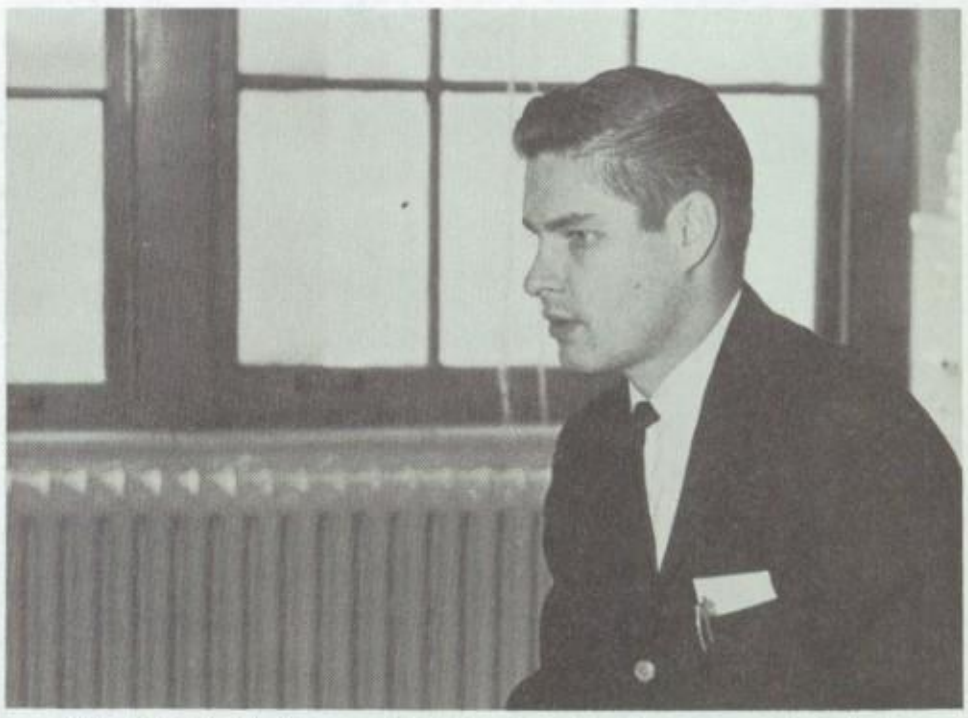
Mr. Steven Harlow vigorously defends Calvin Coolidge.

Mr. Wayne Shank allows his subconscious emotions to be revealed.



Mr. Jack Goodhue explains the pitfalls of AP exams to his College American class.

Mr. Keith Lindblom poses an American problem to his class.



Mr. Gary McNee attempts to inject perspective into American History.

Mrs. Alice Koons gives an impassioned lecture to her Modified American History class.

Business Education

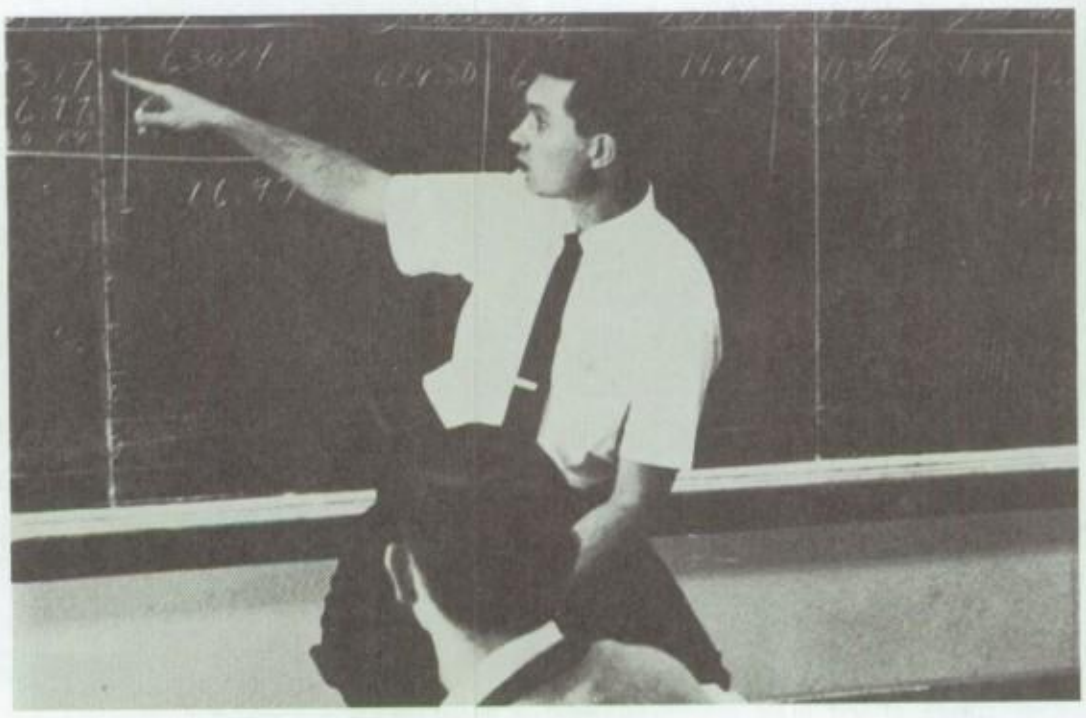
Cindy Burns X's out an error.

Mrs. Faye Bult briefs her students on forms of shorthand.



Crediting a debit is demonstrated by Mr. Wayne Gnadt.

Mrs. Joan Rudel paces do-or-die dictation.

Miss Joyce Walker extends her expert advice.

Miss Creta Sproul delivers an oration on typing.

Mrs. Marilyn Hoyle points out that a typist must be precise in her work.

Business Education

Mrs. Ruth Eggleston warns Kay Zurbrugg about the dangers of the "hunt-and-peck" system.

Diane Simpson discovers that an important part of Business Education is learning how to correct errors.

Using comparative charts, Mr. Dungan tells the class how important it is to pay their rent in cash.

Special Education

Mr. Allan Winter demonstrates emphasized pronunciation to hard of hearing classes.

The Special Education Department operates under the precepts that management of the handicapped child will enable him to utilize his capacities, and encouragement of his individual development will further the process of his self-realization. Instructors, by fitting the small classes to the needs of individual students, and by using special equipments such as braillers, earphones, and other mechanical aids and techniques such as lip-reading, mobility training and concrete structured learning experiences help even the most severely handicapped student to profit from a public school education.

Judy Miller shows Mrs. Esther Howard her improved typing technique as another student looks on.

Typing a college transcript, Mrs. Sonja Ek fulfills her responsibility as records clerk.

Miss Jay Breen, school social-worker, takes a brief respite from her schedule of appointments.

The complex job of dealing with vermicular switchboard wires occupies the time of Mrs. Mary Rider.

Assisting in the testing office, Mrs. Emily Tescher types out a list of College Board scores.

Promoting good public relations, Miss Jennie Marr deflates students' capital with a smile.

Mr. Robert Kennedy, Educational Career Counselor, explains various aspects of musical careers to Kitten Marie Wieder.

Every student who has been absent or excused from class knows Mrs. Marilyn Jester.

Special Department

Miss Barbara Gillett helps John Ellsworth find "Catcher in the Rye" in the card catalog.

Mrs. Hazel Clark waits for Wayne Phillips to sign a study hall attendance sheet.

Miss Eloise Pearson endeavors to painlessly collect fines for an overdue book.

Miss Elizabeth Craven watchfully proctors a test.

Mrs. Virginia Shakespeare checks her records at the request of Mr. Garrett.

Carefully recording the numbers of new textbooks is Mrs. Kathryn Cutforth.

Mrs. Mae Nelson, replacing Mrs. Sonja Ek as records clerk, mimeographs the daily bulletin.

Miss Alwyn Evans, Mr. Robert P. Colwell's secretary, relaxes during her lunch hour by reading a good book.

Special Department

Keeping tract of a vast stock of books is the job of Mrs. Lynn Schachterle.

Medicine is often applied to strange places by Mrs. Henrietta Schwarzler.

Mrs. Ruth Bradlor faithfully applies herself to the tasks of a clerk.

Mrs. Louise Anderson keeps track of wayward students' attendance records.

Mrs. Lee Pulaski helps to produce the morning bulletin.

Student Council Performs Gratuitously

Student Council members create latest winter fashions for school statuary.

Spraying three miles of evergreen rope, formulating the Colfax Code and building a seventeen-foot Eiffel Tower were only a few of Student Council projects this year. Members, representing the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes and school publications mingled debate on serious school problems with planning the Sweetheart Dance, Howdy Day, Color Day, several teas, Christmas Decoration, many assemblies and a car wash.

To foster good relations with the other Denver high schools, Council went to breakfast with each high school.

In a manner recalling the flag-pole sitters of olden times, Syl Reed gracefully decorates the tip-top branches of the tree.

Humming "The Ballad of Lizzie Borden," Mike Pryor puts the finishing touches on the bannister decorations.

Delegate Assembly members consider another controversial issue.

Delegate Assembly Registers Reaction

Delegate Assembly members, elected representatives of the student body, express the will of the majority in matters of school business. This year Delegate Assembly sponsored the Kennedy Memorial Dance, determined the placement of the Angel, and continued the annual United Fund Drive. Buddy Noel's capable gavel and Mr. Arthur Bragg's understanding sponsorship guided the delegates in their political ramblings.

Angel Unveiled

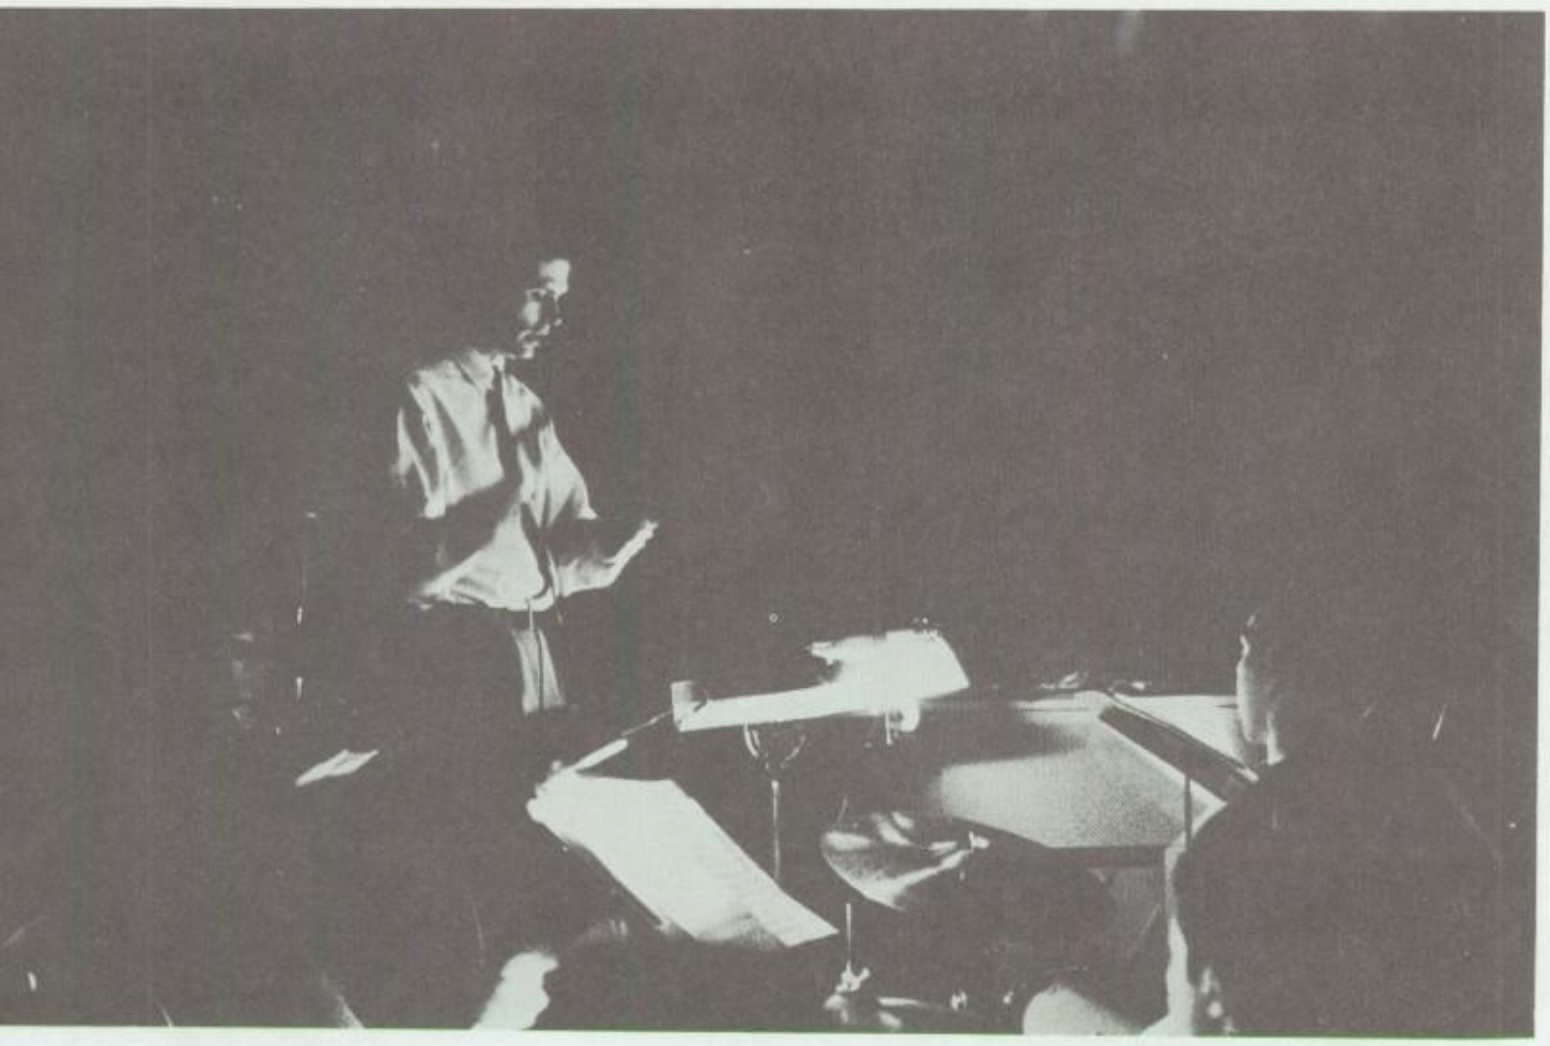
A hardly recognizable angel stands alone in the south court, immediately prior to its "rejuvenation."

In 1885, Ella Catherine Matty, a six-year-old girl, was chosen from five thousand Denver children to model for an angel's face to be put over the keystone of East High. In 1924, when the school was torn down, the angel was saved and later put in the south court gardens of the new East. There it was ruined by time and vandals.

Last year Mrs. Powell's first-hour English class started an all-school campaign to rejuvenate the angel. $770 was raised through various projects sponsored by clubs, classes, and student activities. Denver sculptor Art Gore worked four hundred hours on a seven-hundred pound piece of Colorado marble to reproduce the new angel. It was presented to the student body by the model, now Mrs. Frederick Orman, and Mr. Gore in the Citizenship Day assembly this year.

Mrs. Federick Orman presents the new angel to the student body in the Citizenship Day assembly.

Surrounded by an appropriate red robe, the new angel is now inside to stay.



Mr. Kay Shadwell rehearses the band in preparation for the All School Show.

Spotlight Indebted to Student Body

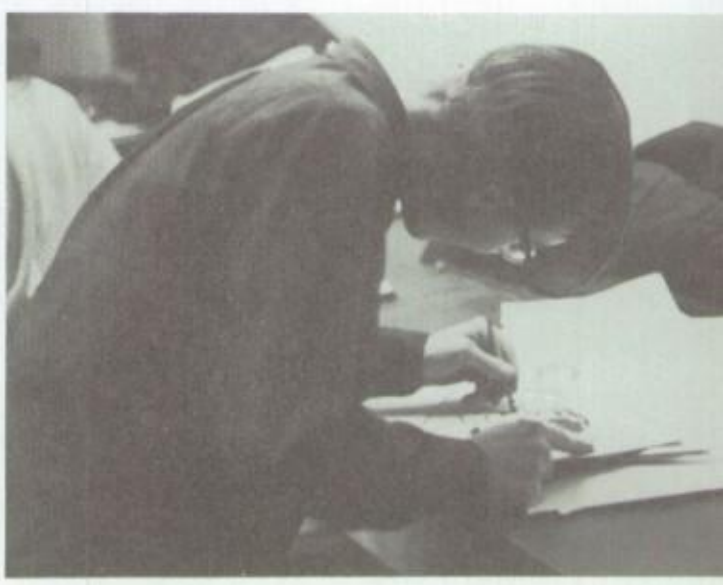
Armed with their finger-printed press cards, Spotlight people shuffle through the halls in search of new stories and new Truths. As they gather evidence, staff members combine their critical talents to form a successful and individualistic newspaper.

Their goal is not to shield students from prevailing circumstances, but to provide the reader with several, often discordant, viewpoints for his personal evaluation. Sometimes opposed to popular opinion and the Administration's policy, Spotlight has made an admirable effort to deliver a bi-weekly issue which both entertains and stimulates its readers.

A highlight of the Spotlight year was the members' presentation of a crib to their outgoing sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Veatch.



Spotlight editor, Dave Heim, demonstrates the dexterity and perserverance which earned him his position of power.

Assemblies Entertain and Enlighten

Janice Wright presents the Colfax Code to the East student body and to representatives of the Colfax merchants.

X. Nady flees from the long arm of the law after being sentenced during the White Jackets' pep assembly.

Assemblies at East are geared to the interests of all students, not just to one group. Subjects vary from music and politics to sports and pep assemblies. A student cannot ignore all assemblies at East. At least one is based on his interests.

Representatives of the various branches of the armed forces held an assembly showing the development of the American flag.

Stage Crew Sets Scene

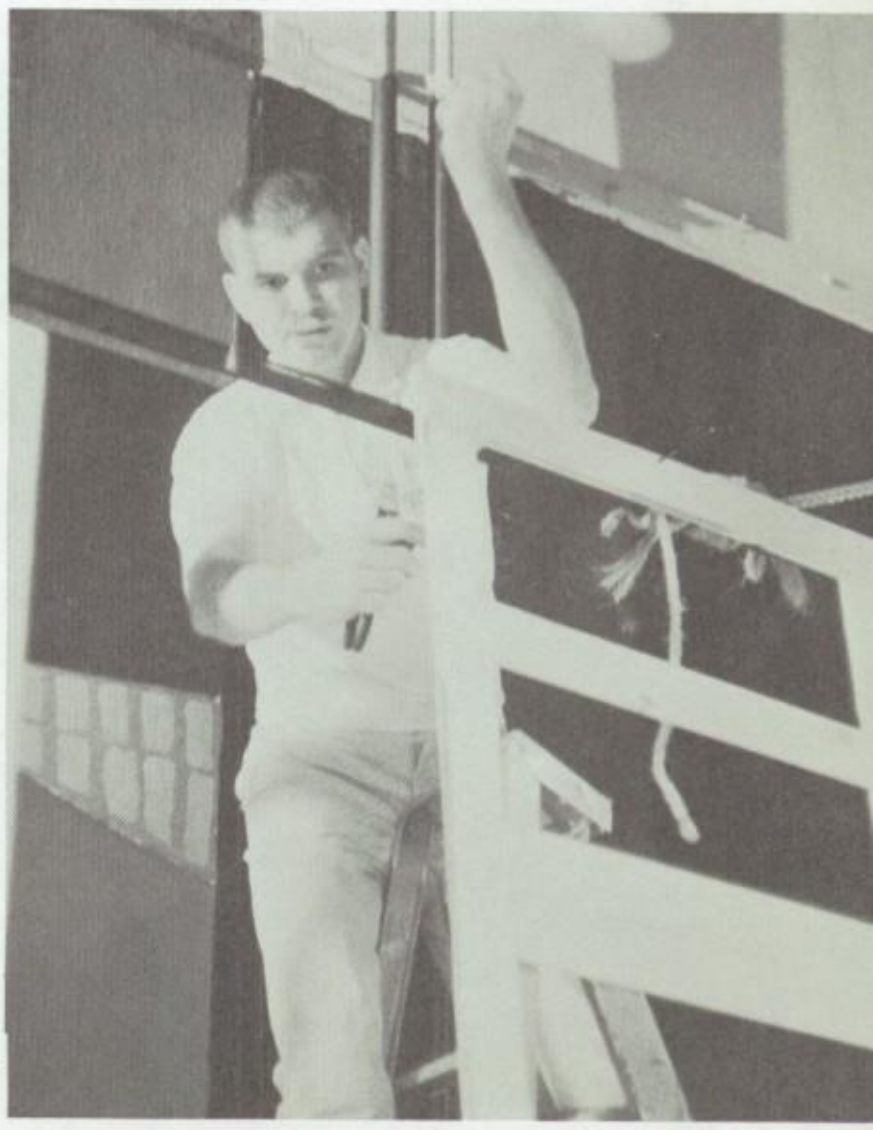
Stage crew members control stage lighting, an essential part of a successful assembly.

Without the daily work of the stage crew — weekly assemblies, the All School Show and special programs presented at East would be impossible. Although they are unseen, their duties back-stage determine the success and continuity of any performance.



Mr. William Holmes, stage crew sponsor, demonstrates the rudiments of stage craft.

Dancing gracefully, Dan Eitemiller and Mardi Wright help to set the romantic scene for "After the Ball," this year's All School Show.

School Talent Spotlighted

"After the Ball," the theme of this year's All School Show, blended the talents of many East students into exciting and well-planned entertainment. Acts ranged from jazz combos and singing groups to ballet and monologues. Credit for the success of the show should go to Miss June Sinnard and Mr. James Nichols, son, the directors, who mixed and moulded abilities of diversified student talent into an original and artistic production. Recognition should also be given to Mrs. Marion Padboy, who organized several of the large musical acts, to Mr. Kay Shadwell, who directed the excellent Show Band, and to Mrs. Olive Green and Circulo d'Arte, who created the colorful scenery.

Barbara Baldivia captivates the audience with flashing cape and Spanish rhythm.

Boys' Choir members bemoan the fate of "Poor Jud."

Bill McMosley and Gene Chalk perform while other acts wait anxiously off-stage.

Fran Jones plays on the emotions of the audience as she sings "Little Girl Blue."

Jan Metcalfe and Judy Floyd combine their talents in a double piano act.

Andrea Boyd modeled a military sling-shot jumper for the fashion show audience.

PTA Fashions Fabulous Show

"A Date With An Angel," this year's P.T.A. Fashion Show, was presented March 12, 13, and 14 to an audience of East High students and mothers. New styles and fashions for the high school and college-bound student were presented through the cooperation of the Denver Dry Goods Co. and Mrs. Pat Geyer, the show's commentator. Models were chosen from members of the senior class and practiced long hours to take part in this year's highly successful fashion show.

Travis Triumphs

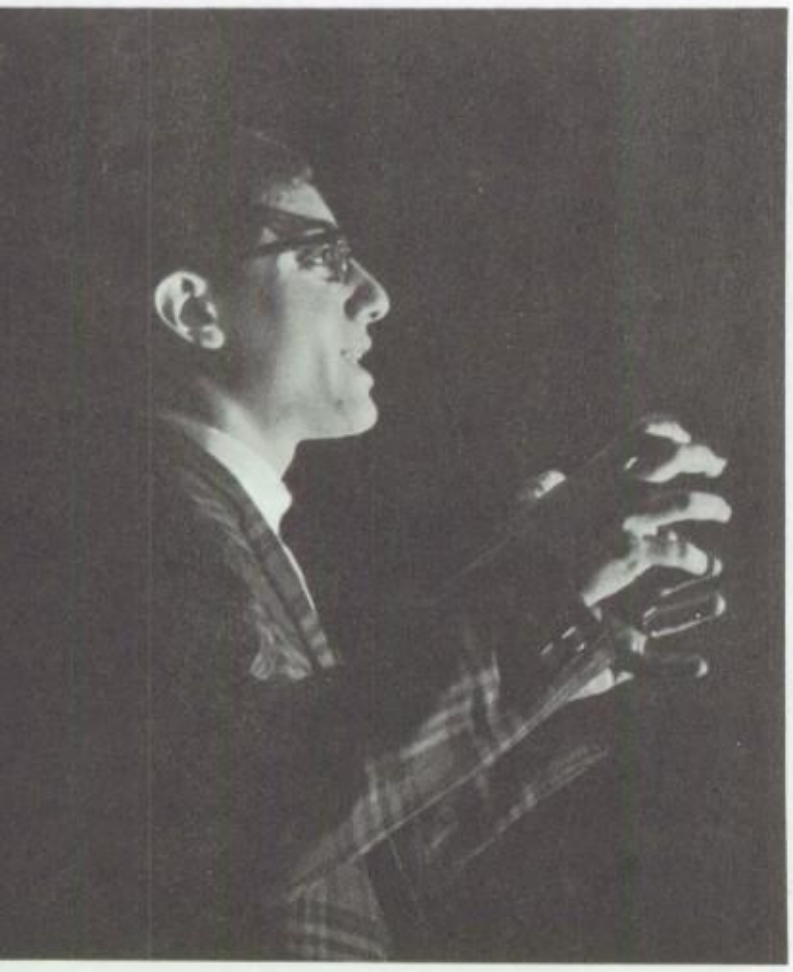
Jim Vrettos gesticulates, adding emphasis to his oratory.

John Travis delivers his award-winning interpretation to an attentive audience.



Mikkel Saks displays the force of delivery that made him a close contender in the contest.

The ninety-first annual Woodbury Oratorical Contest, one of the oldest traditions at East, was presented on January 15. This contest was started in 1875 by R. W. Woodbury, a member of the first graduating class of East. His purpose was to encourage high school boys in developing their public speaking abilities.

This year, John Travis, a junior, won the Woodbury Medal for his impassioned delivery of Victor Hugo's "Against the Curtailment of Suffrage." John competed with seven other excellent speakers: Gary Blum, Frank DeSciose, John Hess, Bill Pace, Mikkel Saks, Jim Vrettos, and John Walton. John Essman and Paul Wagner introduced the contestants.

The three impartial judges were former governor Stephen L. R. McNichols, Reverend Richard B. Kozelka, and Mr. Ernest E. Pech. Mrs. Genevieve Kreiner coached the orators.

Wright Wins Wolcott

Janice Wright, Wolcott Medal winner, reads her award-winning rendition to an attentiv audience.

The Wolcott Medal is awarded annually to an East High girl for excellence in public reading. The first award was offered in 1880 after the establishment of the contest by the Hon. H. R. Wolcott in 1879. This year's winner, Janice Wright, was chosen from a field of 7 girls, all of whom read sequences from John Steinbeck's, The Flight.

Dana Gruenert offers her interpretation of this year's Wolcott Contest selection, The Flight.

Connie Plunkett, Laurel Stone, Carolyn Young, and Vicky Sanders gaily help construct the second-place Senior Float, "The Unisphere."

This is the Year that Was

"Time is running out," theme for the first-place Junior Class Float, introduced the serious thought of anxiety for world peace.

A tipsy world was the Senior Class entry.

"This is the Year that Was," the general theme of this year's Red and White Day, unified the various activities of the day. In the morning, floats, created to depict World's Fairs, past and present, were entered in the parade by the sophomore, junior and senior classes, first hour classes and clubs. Skits, featuring the theme, "News Fronts," were presented at a special morning assembly in which the 1964 May Queen was crowned. Later on in the day, many students attended the city track meet, "Leap Year," and cheered the East track team on to another victory. Creativity and ingenuity were displayed by East students throughout the day.

The third-place Sophomore Class is "LookingAhead" to better luck next year.

It's "bottoms up," as eager celebrants destroy the results of weeks of hard labor.

City Championship Rifle Team Vies in NRA Sectional

East High School's hand-picked ROTC shooters, Howard Nevins, James Bell, Rick Marotte, and Dennis Grant compose a strong and well-balanced team. Some people say it takes long hours of practice to become a good shooter; others say strict discipline; but Sgt. Elicerio, rifle team coach, recommends large amounts of both to produce a championship squad.

ROTC Creates Sense of Duty

Rifle team members put long hours on the range to produce a championship squad.

An inspection, a command, or a movement in unison are all integral parts of military training.

Federal Inspection Held in Spring

Inspection builds a sense of responsibility and duty. Throughout the year weekly inspections are held, gigs are posted, and records kept high. However, the real inspection takes place in the spring, when the battalions and drill team are reviewed by a regular military officer.

Sgt. Elicerio has a way with words, and discipline, when it comes to military life.

City Champion Drill Team Practices Three Times a Week

Beginning practice the second week of school, East High's drill team competes with other schools and performs for civic organizations, federal inspections, and the All School Show. After building a championship squad, Sgt. Elicerio says, "By practicing three times a week, why shouldn't we be the best in the region?"

ROTC takes care of the raising of "Old Glory," even to a special storm flag on the coldest day.

The drill team was again a highlight of the All-School Show.

Honorary Cadets Have Earned Coveted Position

Many hours are spent in practice by East's famed Honorary Cadet drill team.

The Honorary Cadets must have grade point averages of 3.0 or better to be appointed by the military department. The Honorary Cadets drill for civic organizations and in city competition; they are also participants in the Sojourners Contest. Being an Honorary Cadet involves practicing drills twice a week, doing clerical work in the armory one period a day, keeping scores in the National Rifle Association sectionals and performing other vital services for the school community.

The military department handles a color guard for all of East's assemblies, a vital service to the school.

ROYALTY

Miss Kathy Wellington

Angelus Queen

The chosen few . . .
representing the starry hopes of every girl,
perfection in the mind of each boy:
A quality of radiance and blossoming maturity;
recognized by many, yet unique in her individuality,
she reigns for a night.

Mr. Everett Clark

Angelus King

Smothers Brothers Select Angelus King and Queen

The final selection of the Angelus King and Queen was made this year by The Smothers Brothers. Preliminary selection of three sophomore boys and three sophomore girls was made by unbiased judges. The six photographs were then sent to the Smothers Brothers in California, who selected Miss Kathy Wellington and Mr. Everett Clark as the 1963-64 Angelus King and Queen.

Miss Betty Starr

Fall Sports Queen

One of the best-attended dances of the year was "Haja," the Fall Sports Dance sponsored by the Angelus and Spotlight staffs. Measled, multicolored streamers added a note of frivolity to the sophisticated, surfing beat of the "Astronauts." Between encores of the "Dog" and the "Monkey," Miss Betty Starr, tennis team candidate, was crowned Fall Sports Queen by Miss Eleanor Arden, last year's queen. Betty was escorted by Bruce Walker.

"Prophecy" foretold that Miss Patty Patterson was to be crowned Junior Prom Queen of the class of '64. A misty blue atmosphere was created by miles of polyethelene bags hanging from the rafters. Miss Kiffaney Kline, last year's Junior Prom Queen, crowned Patty while the "Classics" set the mood with music. Miss Patterson's escort was Mr. Bink Staub.

"More Amour" was the theme of the Sweetheart Dance, sponsored by Student Council. Red and white streamers strung with hearts helped to express the valentine mood. As the time for the crowning of the 1964 Sweetheart King and Queen approached, the twelve candidates were presented, and the crowns were placed on the heads of Mr. X. Nady and Miss Cindy Burns. The sweetheart couple then began the traditional first dance to music provided by "The Catalinas."

Behind every win, many hours of practice:
time to learn, to work, to mold the mental and physical attitudes which can determine triumph or defeat.
The kick-off, climax of tense anticipation,
the thrill of a touchdown,
the throng of the crowd.
The suspense before a free-throw,
cheerleaders embodying the Angel spirit.
A homerun, the race won:
the sweat, anguish and pride that belong

East Takes City, Falters in State

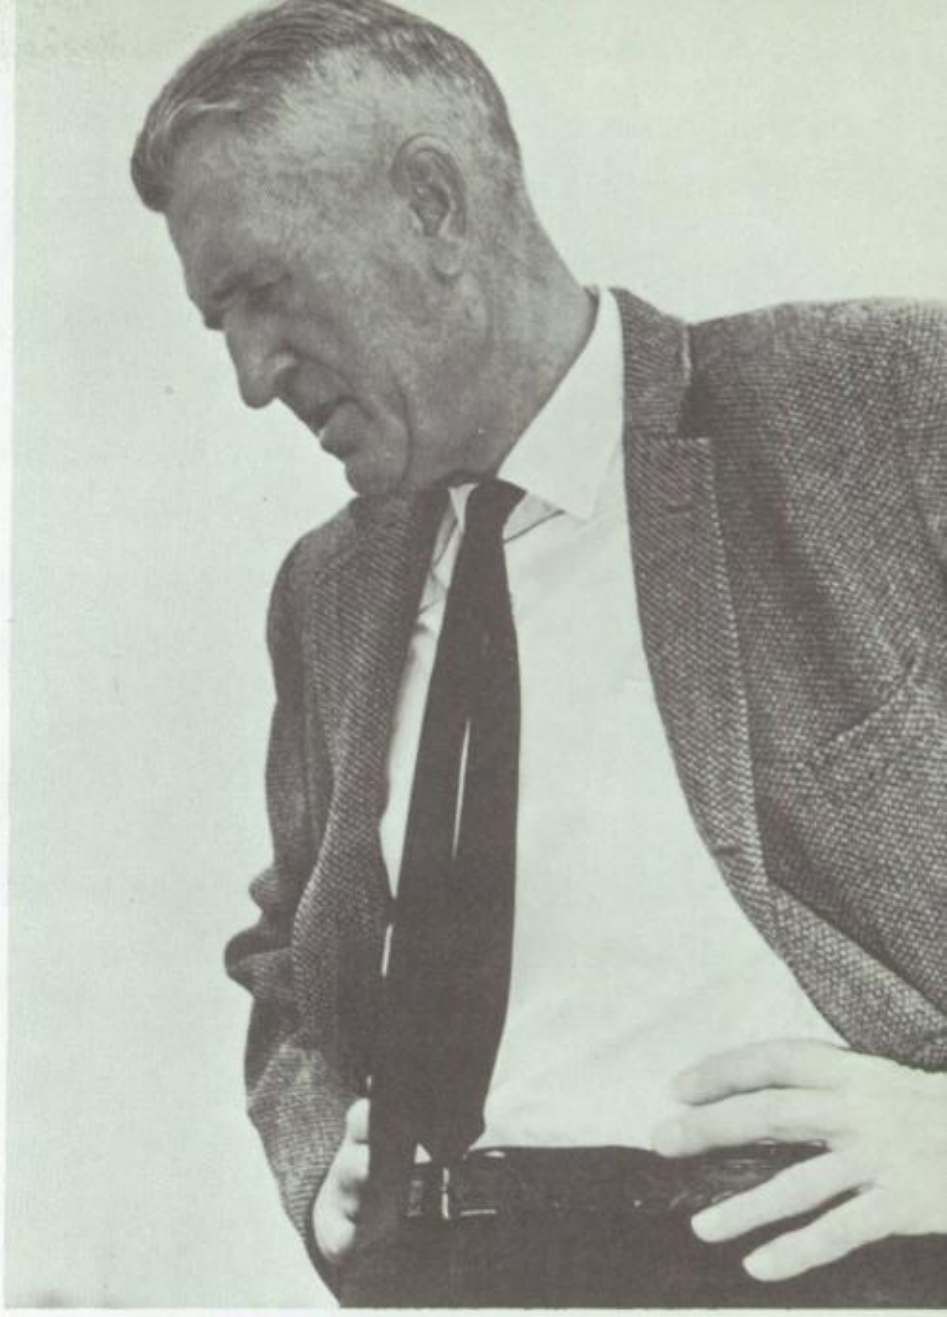
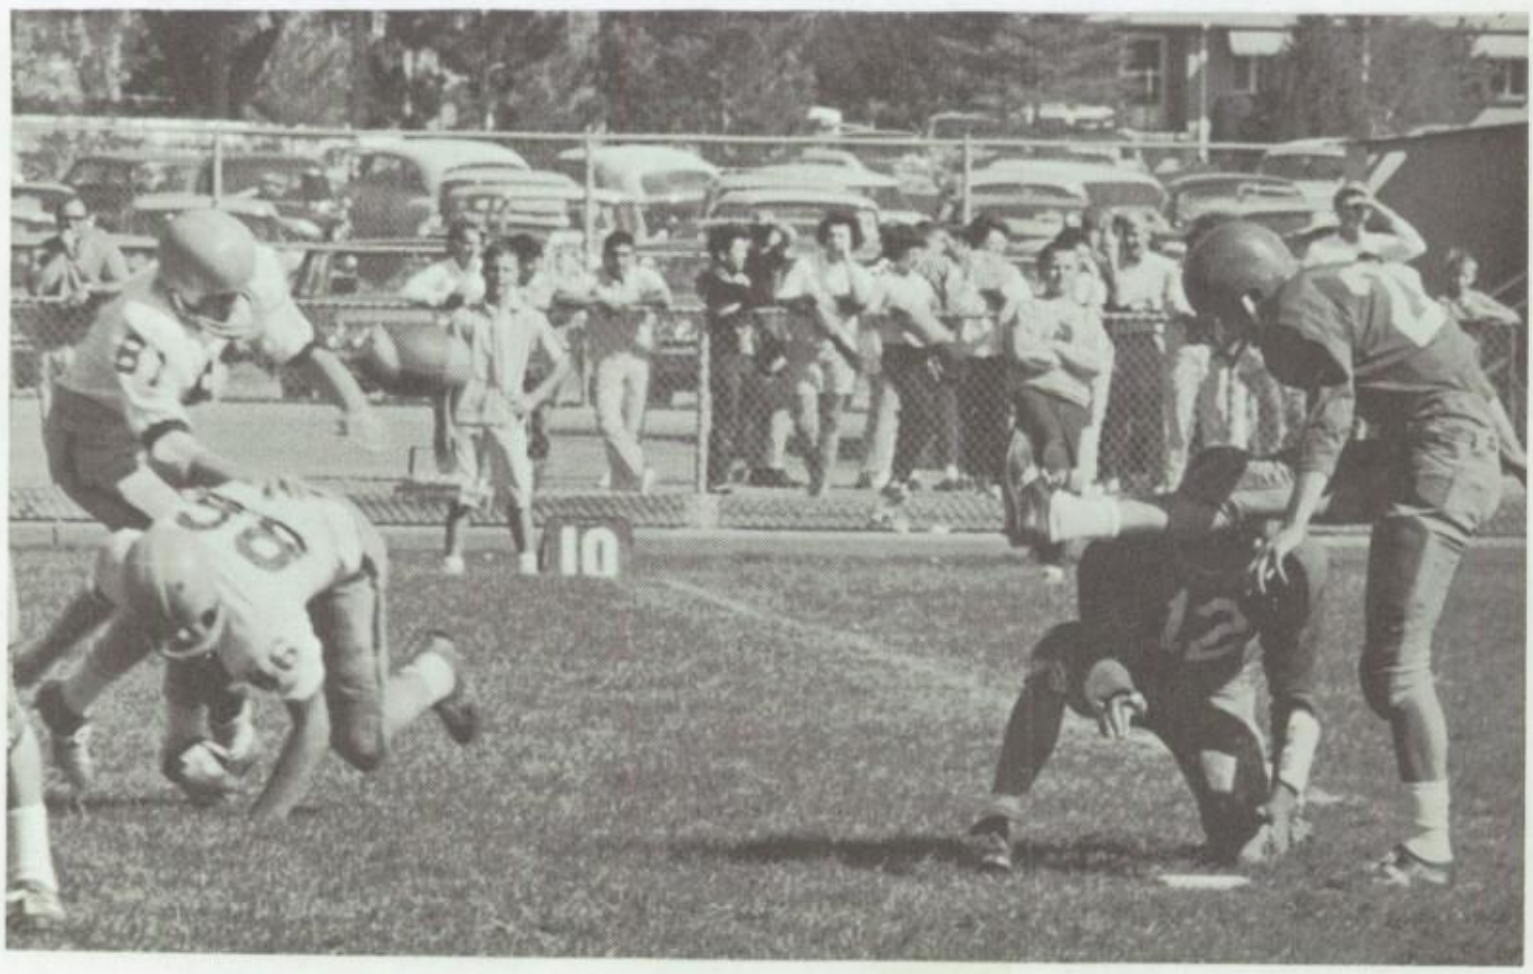
East's nineteen sixty-three football team began the season with a flourish. By defeating Loveland and Pueblo East in pre-season games, the Angels entered their first league game against South Rebels 14-0, and Cherub football followers began to believe that the Angel team was on its way to another city championship.

Following the South game, East put down Thomas Jefferson 12-6, and went on to face an unbeaten and highly touted Abraham Lincoln. This game proved to be the successful turning point in East's quest for a city championship. After Lincoln intercepted an East pass on the third play of the game, the East defense went to work and held the Lancers for no gain. The ball returned to the Angels. East promptly scored on a 73-yard pass play from tailback Dave Babbs to wingback Steve Dertinger. This began the downfall of the Lancer team, with the final score 21-7. East's defense held Lincoln to twelve yards rushing and one first down in the first half of this crucial game.



Coach Pat Panek listens intently to the questions and remarks of an East football player.



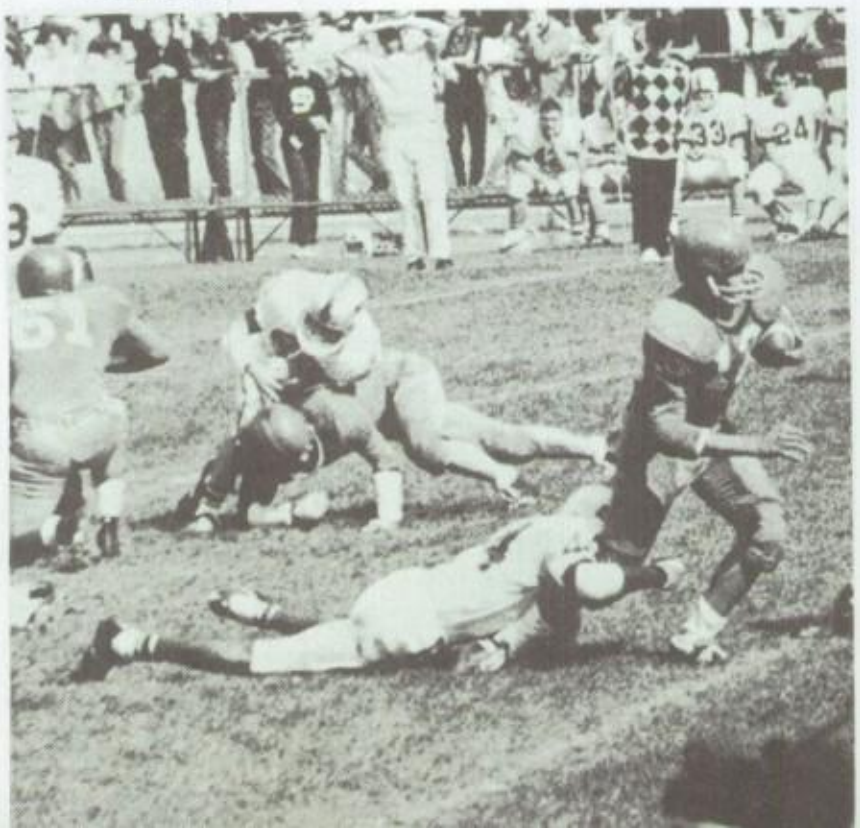
Steve Dertinger's extra point attempt goes wide of its mark as East defeats Thomas Jefferson 12-6. X. Nady (12) holds for the place kick.

East's line backers, Lee Omohundro, X. Nady, and John Ellsworth, gaze knowingly into the North backfield as they prepare for action. East won by 43-9.

Grimacing in pain, Paul Springs shows Coach Paul Coleman the source.

Easily defeating North 43-0, Manual 39-0, and West 55-0, East faced George Washington in the last game of the league season. The winning team would qualify for a berth in the state play offs. But the Angels suffered a tremendous setback when All-State tackle Dave Sidwell injured his ankle in practice. This injury disabled Sidwell for the George Washington game and the remainder of the season. However, East, highly keyed up for the game, routed George Washington 35-13, brought Coach Pat Panek his sixteenth City championship, and won a chance at the state title. This meant facing Pueblo Centennial in the semi-final game at Pueblo School Stadium.

Trying to shake off a tackler, X. Nady (12) heads downfield as Gary Foster throws a block in the background.



Throughout the season East was rated a strong favorite to take state. However, entering the semi-final game without the services of Dave Sidwell, Steve Dertinger, and Toasty Brame, the Angels were definitely not at full strength. The Centennial Bulldogs came to play football and would not be denied a hardfought victory. East, hampered by injuries and a day in which they could do nothing right, lost to the fired-up Centennial squad 27-26.

Coach Panek contemplates his strategy for the second half as Joe Santifer (27) rests in the background.

Halfback Floyd Tunson (40) takes a hand-off during the George Washington game. East drubbed the Patriots 35-13 and captured its sixteenth City championship under Coach Panek.

Tennis Captures City

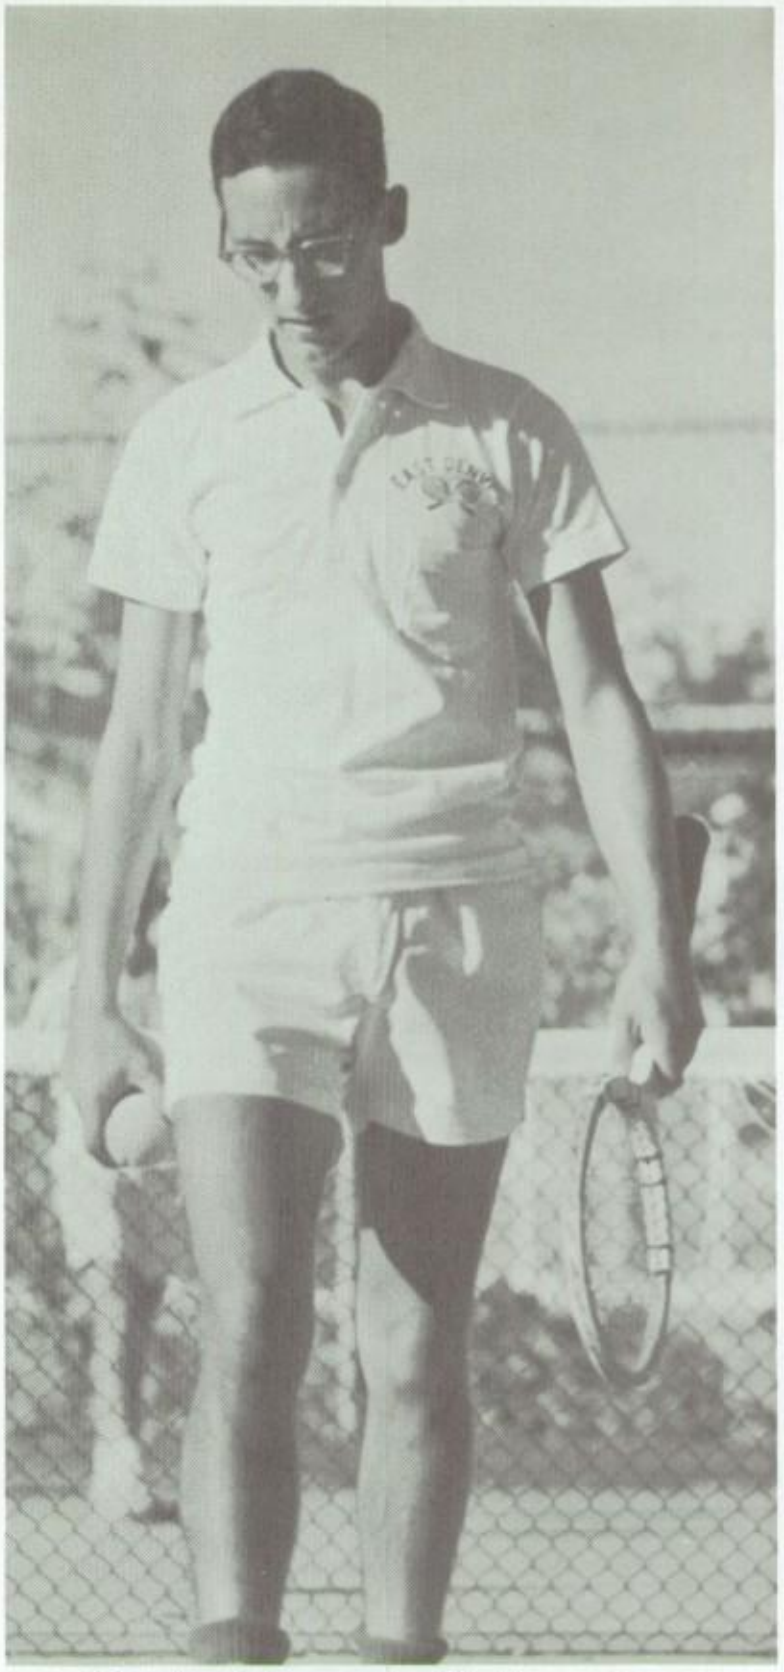
Under the first year auspices of Jim Coleman, the tennis team captured the City championship. Led by defending state champion, Alan Loeb, the racketeers also powered their way to a second place finish in the state meet.

Sophomores Steve Jackson and Jim Trotsky, who were undefeated in city doubles competition, lost in the first round of play in the state meet but gained valuable experience for next year. Ken Rupp will also return to the squad next year. Rupp was second in the state meet competition.

Senior Alan Loeb has completed a brilliant tennis career at East. He has won three state championships and led East to fine finishes in the three years he has played. The tennis team will miss Alan and his winning ways next year.



Often tennis is a game of luck as well as a game of skill. Alan Loeb's face reflects frustration during a hard-played match.

By beating Englewood and Aurora, the cross country team got off to a good start. Their first defeat was not until the Aurora Invitational when Aurora struck back and defeated the Angels by four points. In their first league meet at South, they bowed to Lincoln by a mere three points. After defeating all other schools in the league, East again lost to Lincoln in the Denver Invitational. The city meet proved to be East's worst showing. It lost to Lincoln by thirteen points. In the state meet East reversed its poor showing in city, edging out Lincoln for the state title. # Swimmers Sink to Third in City

After losing their first meet by a mere three points to South, the Angel mermen were spurred on to win their remaining meets until the season's end brought defeat at the hands of the powerful Thomas Jefferson and George Washington swimmers.

Special recognition was won in the city meet by team captain Lewis Kontnik, who took first place in the 200-yard Individual Medley and 100-yard Backstroke; Mike Hendryson, who captured second in the 100-yard Freestyle and fourth in the Individual Medley; Scott Manley, who placed second in the 100-yard Butterfly; Jim Florey, who got eighth in the 100-yard Breaststroke; and John Kontnik, who received a fifth in the 400-yard Freestyle.

The following week in the State Meet, Lewis Kontnik once again emerged victorious with a first place in the 100-yard Backstroke and a second in the 200-yard Individual Medley. Scott Manley miraculously pulled out a fourth place in the 100-yard Butterfly, despite the fact that he had dislocated his knee earlier in the morning. The team has high hopes for next year.

With the state championship trophy in their hands and Coach Coleman on their shoulders, the triumphant Angels head for the showers.

Operating out of a pressing defense during league competition, this year's basketball team changed their playing technique for the state tournament. After defeating Lakewood in the quarter-finals with a shaky 74-72 victory, the Angels began to display offensive might the following night.

The Wildcats posed a double threat to the Cherubs; their skill, coupled with the legendary Greeley "kiss of death," had haunted the state touranment for years. Facing this team in the semi-finals, the Angels scored points, in spurts, with fantastic accuracy, poise and skill. Starting the second half with a small four-point lead, East demolished and demoralized the Wildcat clan with a 74-59 thrashing.

The Angels' final competitor was Pueblo Central, fresh from an 84-82 victory over Manual in the semi-finals. Both East and the Wildcats possessed an effective defense and an offense which was eager and ambitious. However, East proved to be the better of the two teams, and, amid spectator chants of "We want a hundred!" wiped out Pueblo and won the state championship trophy by a record score of 103-83.

But this accomplishment was not as easy as it sounds. The Angels were often erratic in their league play, and did not play consistently well until the state tournament. Although the Cherub squad had its problems, with the understanding and able leadership of Coach Paul Coleman, East's nineteen sixty-four basketball team developed into one of the finest in the history of Colorado high school basketball.

Taking the initiative can often catch the opponent unaware and lead to an easy score. Chuck Williams (41) along with Tom Williams (31) and Fritz Sudholt (11) start an Angel fast break.

Inter-Club Council Co-ordinates Clubs

By providing an opportunity for presidents of all school clubs to meet to discuss their common problems, ICC coordinates club activities and promotes club co-operation. ICC sponsors a fall banquet each year to familiarize club officers with their duties. ICC also organizes a club open house at the beginning of the year to introduce prospective members to the interests and purposes of school clubs.

Diners at the ICC Banquet relax and enjoy entertainment provided by a folk-singer.

Trials and Tribulations in Pre-Law

The somber voice of the influential judge seated on his bench . . .

The silent protest of the defendant found guilty of the crime . . .

The threatening footsteps of the approaching bailiff . . .

These sights and sounds all contribute to the legal atmosphere of the mock trials which the Pre-Law Club holds semi-annually. The club is co-sponsored by Mr. George Mansfield and Mr. Rex Craig, with Bud Bourke in possession of the gavel. A trip to the courthouse, a religious discussion, and several interesting speakers provided the club with enjoyable and informative activities. The club's social schedule included the "Winter Carnival," at a mountain retreat, and the Annual Spring Banquet, held at the Oxford Hotel. Besides being a special interest club, the Pre-Law Club performs various school services such as ushering at the Woodbury Contest and co-sponsoring the Senior Return in December.

President Bud Bourke and sponsor Mr. Rex Craig contemplate humorous antics for future trials.

Pep Club Promotes Cherub Cheers

Other activities, planned at eighth-hour Friday meetings, were selling shakers and presenting a drill at the Homecoming football game.

New uniforms added much to the White Jackets' appearance and enthusiasm. Red box-pleated skirts, white collarless box jackets and black penny loafers replaced the uniforms which had been worn for several years.

One of the White Jackets' traditional activities as the school pep club has been holding the annual Father-Daughter Banquet. Any girl may ask her father or favorite teacher to attend the banquet and the following basketball game. This year's banquet was highlighted by entertainment by father and daughter acts.

The sparkling wit of Mrs. May Dunkin, White Jacket Sponsor, enlivens the Father-Daughter Banquet.

Nadeen Enge and her father dramatize excerpts from Shakespeare at the Father-Daughter Banquet.

Club president Jim Weiss gets assistance from a member in painting scenery for the All-School Show.

Circulo d'Arte Combines Culture with Classes

Faces smeared with green paint . . .
Drips of red blending with last year's posters . . .
The smell of turpentine emanating from the auditorium stage . . .
Art Club strikes again!

Under the tireless direction of Mrs. Olive Green, the Art Club donated its time and efforts to creating the brilliant scenery for the All School Show this year. The theme "After the Ball" was aptly carried out in colorful backdrops depicting places visited by couples "after the ball."

Meetings during the year featured a sculptor, a political cartoonist, and an expert on Oriental art — speakers who shared their knowledge with the club. To stimulate students' interest in painting, Circulo d'Arte has sponsored the hanging of prominent Denver artists' works in the Girls' Social Room.

Fortran and Methuselah Linked with Euclidians

A2 + B2 = C2

The mathematician speaks to the computer in this, the language called Fortran. Learning this precise language was the Euclidian Club's main aim this year.

Along with the serious business of learning Fortran, there was also the fun of proving algebraically that Mr. Nicholson, the club's sponsor, is really older than Methuselah. The Euclidian Club has maintained an air of attention mingled with good humor during its active year.

Seraphs Stuff Toys

Through many traditional activities, Seraphs serve the school. Sophomore Welcoming, Seraph Dance, Senior Girl Awards and the Faculty Tea are only a few of these projects.

Each year Seraphs are chosen from the highest scholastically ranking junior girls and "tapped" at the annual Seraph Assembly. Each Monday during their senior year these girls meet in the luxurious surroundings of the Girls' Social Room to plan their many programs under the direction of the Dean of Girls, Mrs. Ann B. Broad.

FTA Goes to CSU

Guided by the conviction that personal knowledge provides the best source of information concerning the pedagogical arts, FTA has presented a variety of speakers, including an African student teacher and a professor from Western State College. In a manner similar to that of professional teachers, FTA members attended city and state assemblies, ushered at career day, and distributed apples to their actual mentors.

Future teachers find student teaching appealing, as Mr. Mike Dallas demonstrates.

The initiation ceremony of officers is an annual tradition for the club.

JCL Returns to "Good Old Days"

A time machine back to 158 A.D. couldn't help one re-live the ancient ages of Rome and Greece any more than Miss Margaret Smith's and Mrs. Dorothy Gaubatz's Latin classes. For those who are studying Latin II through Virgil-Cicero, there is the opportunity to join the Junior Classical League. The club is a nation-wide organzation, and state conventions are held each year to elect state officers and to provide workshops and contests for the delegates from Colorado and Wyoming chapters.

The JCL members at East donated a Thanksgiving basket to charity. Members left their dusty books to commemorate two Roman holidays, lo Saturnalia and the Ides of March. Togas were in order as gods and goddesses invaded Room 402 on the festive occasions.

A spring banquet was held in May, when awards were presented. East JCL was started in 1960, and has been a most successful club.

Annette Cluff and Susan Thach display their Roman regalia.

Players Dee Douglas, Rosalie Schemel and Merrick Bobb are in the process of making-up, while Joe Goldhammer projects himself into his characterization before a performance of "Stage Door."

Drama Club Presents . . .

Budding actors and actresses have a showcase for their talent in the Drama Club's two yearly productions. This fall Dee Douglas, club president, played the lead in "Stage Door," by George Kauffman. In the spring, Suzanne Brown and Bill Riedesel co-starred in "Antigone" by Jean Anouilh, the club's entry in the All-City One-Act Play Contest sponsored by the University of Denver.

Within the organization is a national group, the Thespians. To be eligible to join this honor society, a Drama Club member must accumulate a hundred hours of dramatic work. At the Spring Banquet, awards for the Best Actor and Actress were presented to outstanding club members. Miss June Smith and Mr. Allen Winter were the club's director-sponsors.

A girls' hotel in New York City sets the scene for the comedy-drama.

The girls are aspiring actresses, who have to overcome wolves while wending their way to stardom.

Dee Douglas (above) stays true to her goals, while Suzanne Brown (below) abandons hers to become a Hollywood success.

Foreign Language Club Visits DU

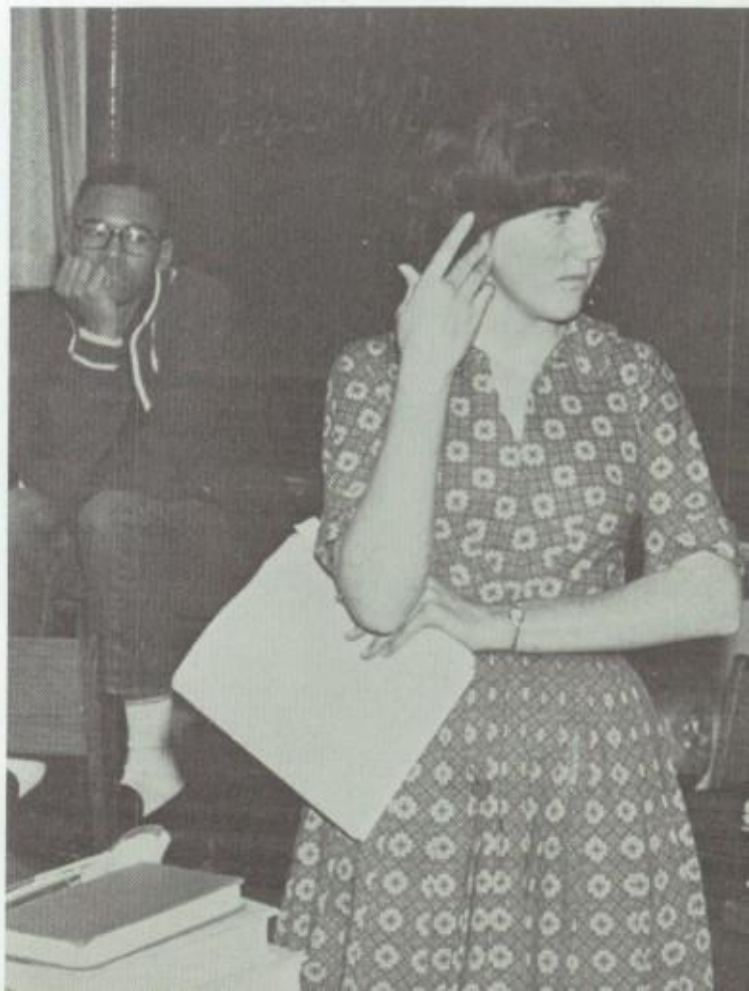
"Guten Tag, Louisa. Wie geht's? Muy bien. Merci beaucoup et vous? Nyet!"

The popularity of the audio-lingual method of teaching foreign languages and its use of standard dialogues gave Foreign Language Club members the opportunity of conducting discussions in many different languages at the same time — as long as no one deviated from the planned dialogue.

Other club activities included several field trips, one of which was to observe the University of Denver language classes and modern language lab.



Carla Linton attempts to keep club members au courant, but it's Greek to Syl Reed.

Model Teens Foretell Future Fashions

East's successful Model Teens Club had a busy year. The selected group of girls sponsored and participated in a fashion show, Red and White Weekend, modeling outfits from Gano-Downs. Other club activities during the year included an informative question-and-answer session with a panel of senior boys: Ric Pomeranz, Bud Bourke, Gene Chalk, Buddy Noel, Dave Nicholson, and Joe Franek. A less-exciting, but interesting, program spotlighted a speaker on current trends in hair-styling. Mrs. Marilyn Hoyle sponsored the club, while Merrilee Gay presided.

Speech Club Debates

Through Extemporaneous Speech, Original Oratory, Dramatic Interpretation, Debate, Poetry Interpretation and Humorous Interpretation — Speech club members gain proficiency in public speaking, poise, and the ability to think on their feet.

Members had an active year participating in many city and regional meets. Some of these were the Regis Invitational, Denver University Invitational, Colorado College Invitational, Denver Public Schools Invitational, Cheyenne Invitational and National Forensic League District Meet.

Outstanding participants in these meets were Janice Wright and Jack Harding in Girls' and Boys' Extemporaneous Speaking, and Dee Douglas in Dramatic Interpretation.

Sponsored by Mr. Richard Johnson, the East High Electronics Club enjoyed an illuminating first year. Although finances proved a static problem, equipment from the physics lab helped to make demonstrations enlightening and dynamic.

An electrifying movie and lecture on Telstar gave the membership a tremendous charge. On alternating weeks, buzz sessions on current affairs generated shock among members, while the election of a president was carried by an ample volt.

A battery of Public Service plugs sparked interest, while a reading of "the charge of the light brigade," the club motto, "live better electrically," and the singing of "Ohm, Ohm, on the Range," closed meetings transmittantly.

Knitters at End of Wits

Let's see, that was knit one, purl two, cast off four — or was it knit two, purl four, and cast off one — or was it? — Oh, FORGET IT!"

Knit-Wits had an active year teaching new members how to knit, old members how to knit better and all members how to keep from becoming entangled in miles of yarn. To lift members' spirits, the club held several knitting parties during vacations, in addition to the bi-weekly fun fests on Wednesday mornings. The club also did several service projects.

I wish I could do that, whatever it is.

Pre-Med Collects Stamps for Sewell

United by a common interest in the rhythmic contractions of the pyloric sphincter, the secretions of the pancreas, and the manipulations of a gastroenterologist, the Pre-Med Club, sponsored by Mrs. Henrietta Schwarzler, pursues the study of the medical sciences. Spearheading an all-school trading stamp drive to purchase a bus for Sewall Rehabilitation Center and visiting hospitals were two activities on the Pre-Med program.

Chili and Charity Tackled by Tri-Hi-Y

Affiliated with the Y.M.C.A., East's Tri-Hi-Y is dedicated to creating and maintaining high standards of Christian character in the home, school, and community. During the year, members participated in a youth government conference held jointly with Hi-Y. Their varied activities included decorating for a Christmas party for handicapped children and sponsoring a money-raising chili dinner held before the East-T.J. basketball game.

Chili and chat, both served hot, enliven Tri-Hi-Y.

Mrs. Alice Call, Brenda Wright and Carolyn Young listen attentively to one of Tri-Hi-Y's guest lecturers.

Symposium Discusses Weighty Subjects

Interesting discussions and lively debate marked the meetings of the Symposium Club. The topics of discussion ranged from the validity of organized religion to the merit of ethics, and included a lecture by Mr. Jack Goldman on the subject, "Life as a Jew under Hitler." Club sponsor, Mrs. Mary Weed, hosted a meeting featuring Bishop Maloney, at her own home.

The High School Red Cross, sponsored by Miss Judy Rowntree, participates in philanthropic endeavors similar to those of the National Red Cross. Its purpose is to help those who are in need, and to educate its own members on the workings of the national organization. Projects this year included filling overseas relief chests for needy children, spearheading the Red Cross Fund Drive, and collecting toys for the Santa Claus Shop. In addition, members performed in a talent show for the disabled at Fitzsimons Hospital, and gave a party for patients at the Pueblo State Hospital.

Skeast Snowplows and Schusses on Slopes

An East skier schusses down the difficult slalom course.

Skeast, one of the largest clubs at East, took advantage of this winter's blizzards. Almost every weekend some of the hardy members chartered a bus to one of Colorado's mountain ski areas. To top off the season the group bussed to Lake Eldora Ski area for races and jumping, dinner, and a party.

Ski boots, poles, mittens, parka, hat, liners, goggles, longies, winesack, wax, ace bandage, and liniment are included in any skier's outfit.

Moguls mean nothing to this intrepid East skier.

A Skeast member traverses at Loveland Basin.

Politics and Picketing Highlight TARS Year

Following in the esteemed tradition of great Americans like Calvin Coolidge, Barry Goldwater, and John Love, the Teen-Age Republicans aggressively pursue a policy of progressive conservatism. Participating actively in school, local, and state politics, the chapter performs many services for their parent organization, the Republican Party. TARS has made the school keenly aware of Republican philosophy as applied to Delegate Assembly and other school organizations and projects.

Teen-Age Republicans display their active interest in school politics by protesting a Delegate Assembly decision.

Key Club Scholarship Unlocks Future

Affiliated with the Denver Kiwanis Club, Key Club is a service club donating its time and effort to the betterment of East. This year, under the sponsorship of Mr. Raymond Acsell, the club's primary project was the publication of a student directory. As in preceding years, the proceeds from the "E-Key" went to a scholarship fund for a deserving student.

Folks Sing Songs

The capoed-folk image-chanty-blue-grass ballad style-ethnic-softly singing Folk Song Club picked its path through another successful year at East. While providing their own accompaniment on various fretted instruments, members sing both traditional and modern ditties, directed by a song leader. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Gerry Kamp, they held bi-weekly songfests as well as hootenannies with other schools.

Light meter, lens, cloud filter . . . unfamiliar words? Not to the members of Camera Club. Y-TEENS, begun this year, is a girls' service club affiliated with the YWCA. Some of the club's main projects included a Thanksgiving gift of money and food to Epworth Methodist Church, a Christmas party for children at Colorado General Hospital, and an Easter charity project. By selling potato chips, club members raised money to send representative to a week-end conference at Peaceful Valley. Y-TEENS' special initiation is something unique among East High Clubs.

Every day in the life of a student is filled with small things . . .
a talk sheltered in a telephone booth an auditorium shaping a cause for interest snow forming the thoughts of the day the East clock ticking the rhythm of the flag a small gleam of learning piercing even the night.

Nancy, I'll never forget our We've had a each other and long nights we
I hope we will see the future other in Good Luck Always,
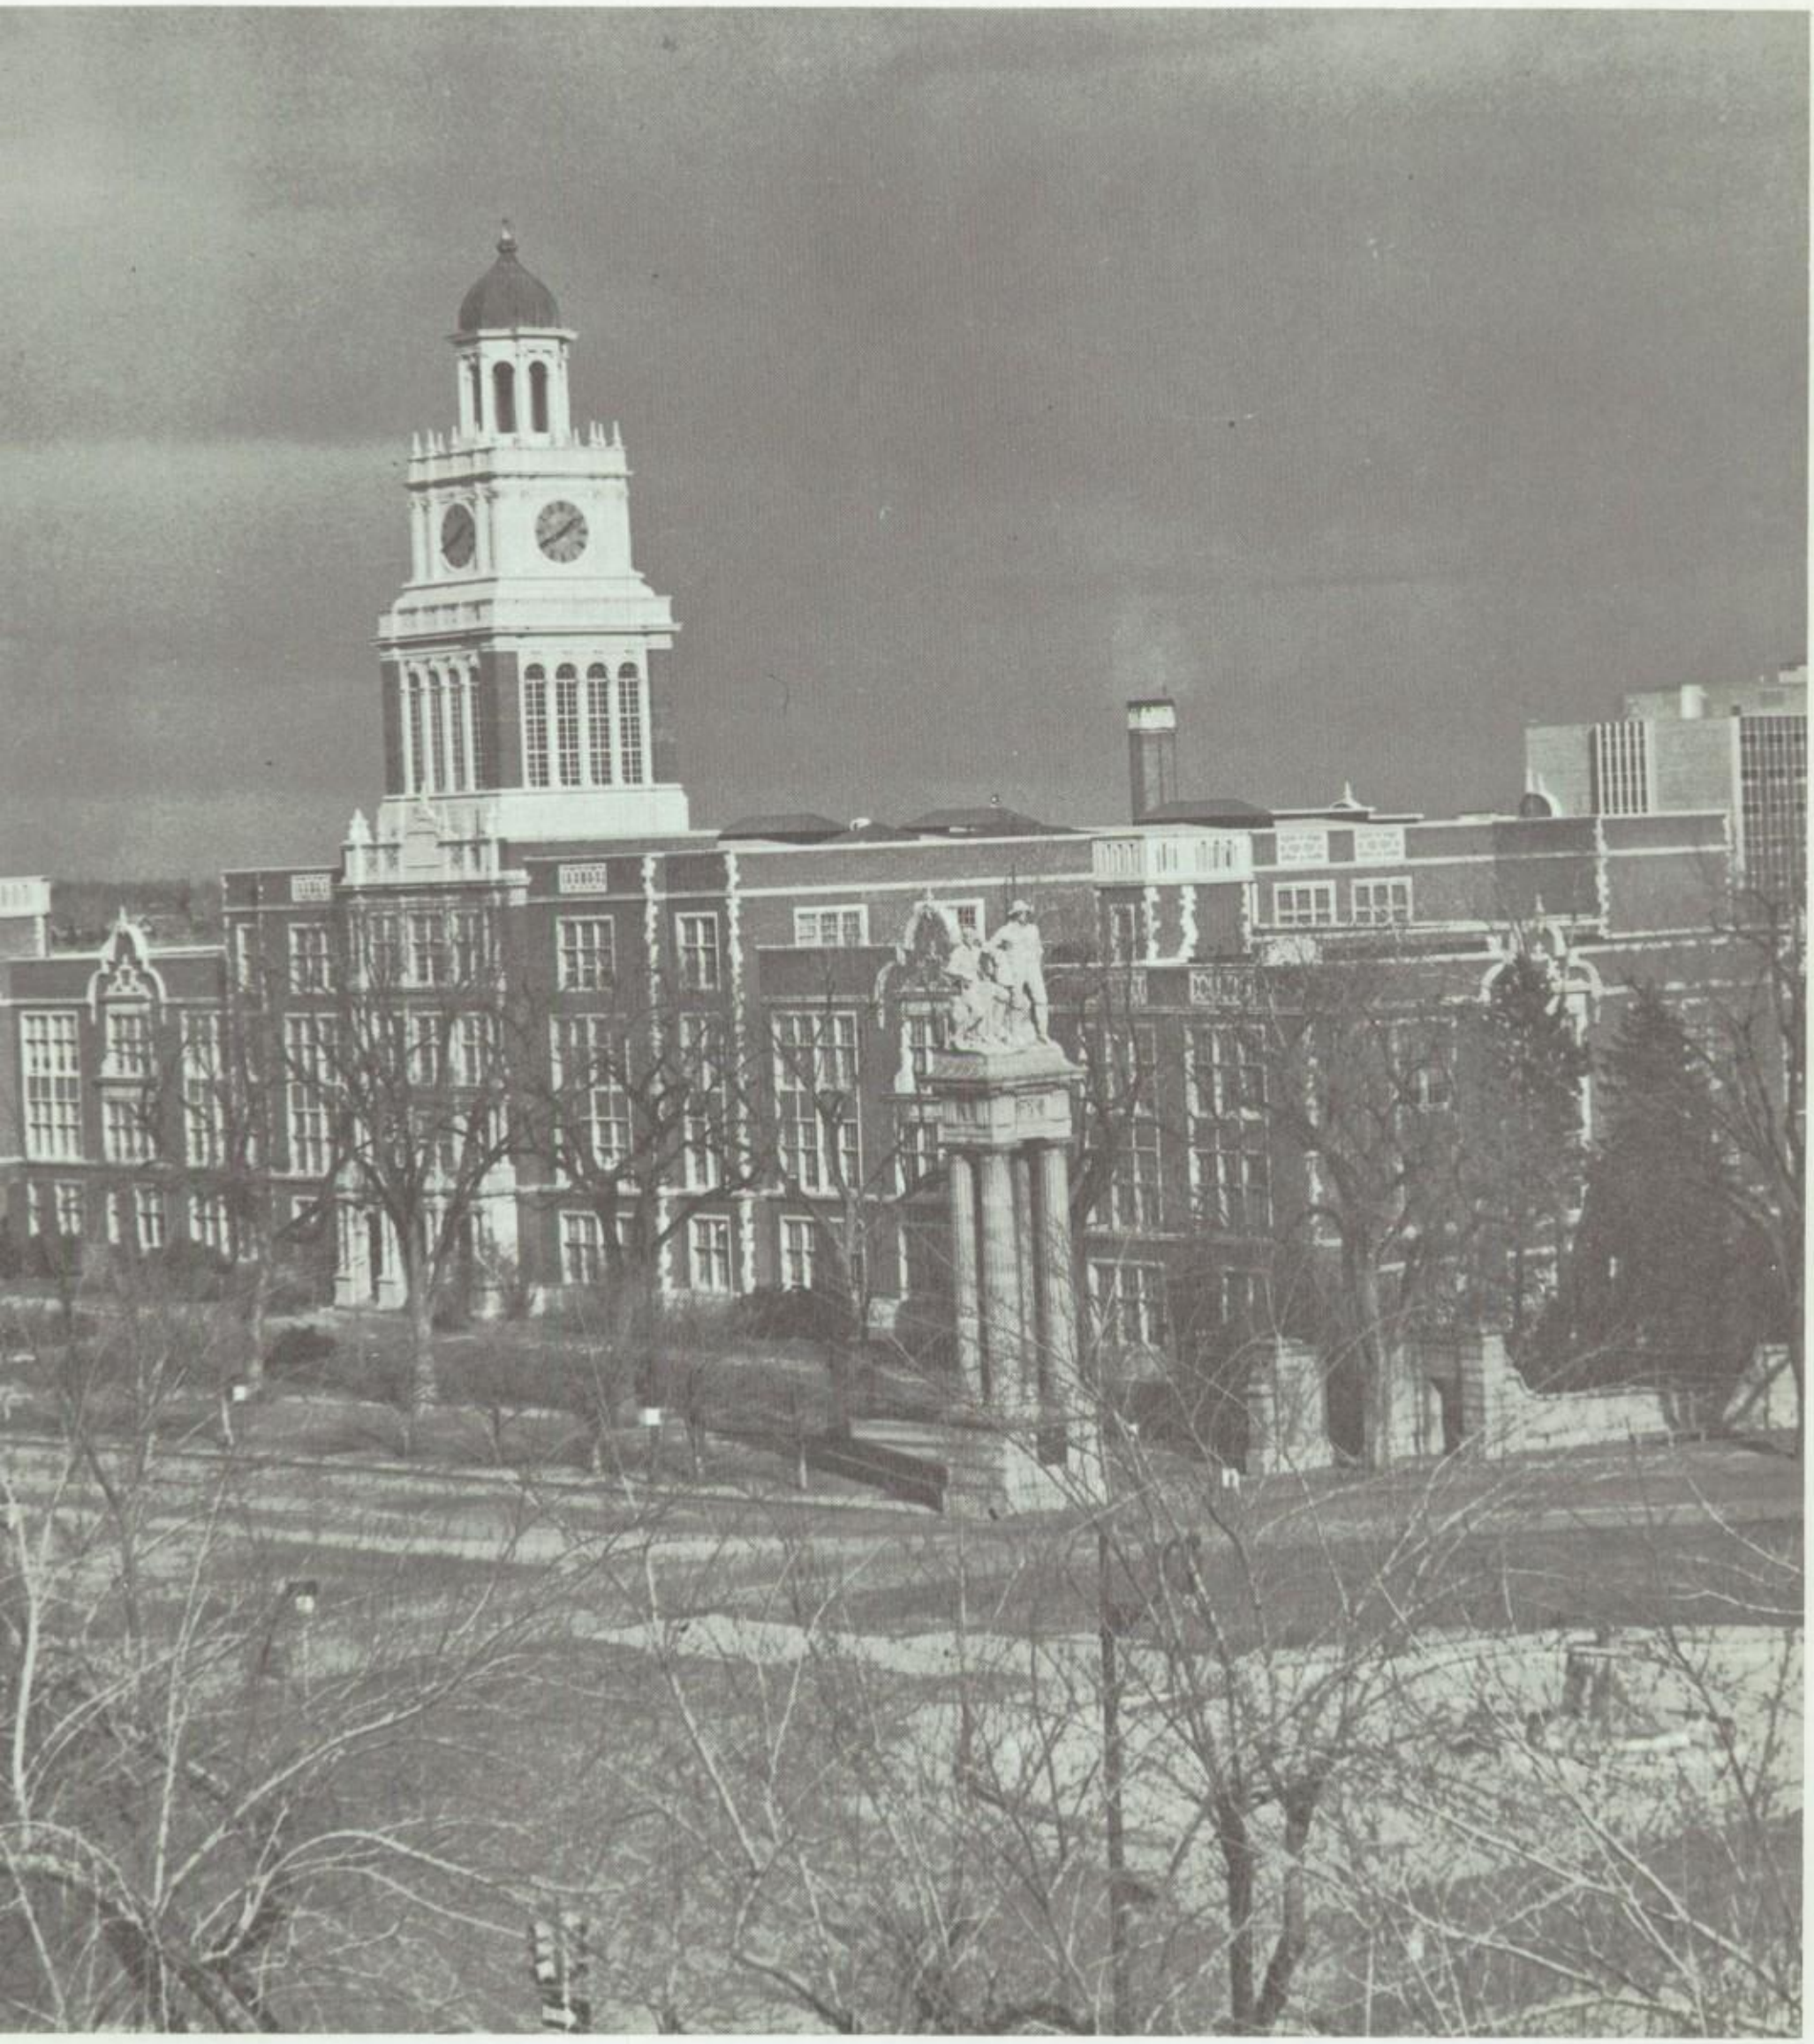
Laurie Stone



A waiting . . .
to release the trials of frustration
the energy of the future wrapped in perpetual thoughts.
The eternal process of learning is not ended by passing from one threshold to another.
